2 DEATHS INCREASE TRAFFIC TOLL TO 13

Around And About Town

With C. F. SKIRVIN

And so Wm. D. Woodroof from Hidalgo county, Texas, comes in to see how the little nephew is doing, the aforesaid little nephew being Ernie Sawyer to you. Mr. Woodroof makes periodical trips to Santa Ana, but so far has not confessed to me whether it is to visit Ernie or to a citrus temptation. He owns several hundred acres of oranges and grapefruit, so naturally at least from the orange standpoint, this county would interest him. Woodroof also guides the destiny of a large life insurance company in his state, so he takes risks both ways—fruits and the human expectancy. Made quite a success of both businesses.

If the meek are to inherit the earth seems to me like there is going to be a lot of vacant land. Everybody I meet is belligerent.

After awhile temptations to speculate lose their glamor. Met a fellow yesterday who thought he could pick the winners and not as much as when the season started. What is that old story about experience being an expensive teacher?

What is this? A frame-up? Hairpin left on my desk. Call for Mr. Watson.

And along the same line another fellow who used my ear for a confession said he was from henceforth going to play a solo hand when it came to business ventures. He said something went wrong with the cash register.

Newspaper heading: "Man saved from Merrimac river by breeches buoy." Another medal in the offing.

Don Lowridge, former Santa Ana, hotel manager and civic minded citizen, says a la Jack Benny, "Hello again," and we know him without him turning in his name. Don has been trying out the climate in the San Joaquin valley, and tells me it's a nice place. Likes our climate the best, though, so he is over in Fullerton. Wants to know who is still in the old town, and I turn in a general summary, with complications.

The suggestion that what this country needs is to "laugh it off," could get some place if we had Will Rogers to help us.

And now Orange gets a place in the municipal sun of sizzling accusations. There is at least one point on which both parties agree—it's politics. Now I can understand what politics might be good for—to cover a multitude of alleged sins.

Yesterday the line formed both on the right and the left in the city hall, and today there isn't any line at all. It was the late arrivals who wanted to get in under the license plate wire.

Occasionally stray into the office of Judge Mitchell and as soon as the boys come in with their tickets I stray out again. That's when the day's business starts, and so far my business with the judge had not been about tickets.

This thing about writing checks on banks in which you have no money isn't an approved business proceeding, but a lot of fellows have told me that they have had some narrow escapes.

Sympathetic soul calls my attention to the stock market and points to a quotation which was down to the figure he bought it. (Continued on Page 2, Col. 1)

License Plate Deadline Finds Little Time

B. E. Little, 110 East Ninth street, yesterday received the last 1938 license plate sold here before the expiration of the time limit set by the California division of motor vehicles.

Little, who arrived at the city hall yesterday just as the doors were closing for the day, was given the plate number, 6X9451.

Hitler Becomes Super-Dictator

TAKES OVER COMMAND OF WAR FORCES

Diplomatic Purge Opens New Regime

BERLIN. (AP)—Reichsfuehrer Hitler emerged today from Germany's most amazing cabinet crisis as the supreme commander to intensify Nazification of his army and to prepare the nation for a new step in world affairs. The 48-year-old fuhrer by a swift series of decrees shook high ranking, conservative generals from their jobs to end the crisis begun with the tinkle of his war minister's wedding bells.

He assumed for himself direct command of all Germany's armed forces; made sweeping changes in the diplomatic service, concentrated authority more than ever before in his own hands, with a secret council on foreign affairs, and named as his foreign minister the zealous Nazi, Joachim von Ribbentrop, the champagne salesman who became ambassador to London.

BRACKS OFF

The net result was further Nazification of the military—acceleration of the process of fusing the party with the state.

The brakes were thrown off, in other words, and today a streamlined Nazi machine is gathering momentum as it heads for its next important move in international affairs.

Hitler has summoned the Reichstag to meet Feb. 20 to hear an important pronouncement, and its nature will concern the minds of Germany and the world during the next fortnight.

WRIGHT'S FATE NEXT WEEK

LOS ANGELES. (AP)—The question of whether distraught Paul Wright, former airport president, committed murder when he slew his wife and his robust "best friend," John Kimmel, may not be left up to the trial jury before next Wednesday.

At least three more defense witnesses and possibly 10 or more prosecution rebuttal witnesses remain to be heard. The trial recessed yesterday until Monday morning.

PHANTOMS PEST KANSAS, TOO

KANSAS CITY. (AP)—Kansas City had only 178,000 registered voters today, in sharp contrast to the 256,000 ballots counted in this city of 415,000 population in the November, 1936, general election.

Some political observers termed the sharp decline in registrations a purge of the ghosts who stalked Kansas City's election booths in the 1936 election.

Seattle Paper Strike Settled

SEATTLE. (AP)—Striking newspapermen were ordered reinstated today on the staff of the Seattle Star, afternoon newspaper, under an agreement signed by the publishers and the American Newspaper Guild ending a seven-month-old strike.

The agreement affected 45 former employees of the editorial, business office and advertising departments, 11 of whom resigned since the strike started last July 2. The pact provided for payment of back salaries. H. Richard Sells, International Guild representative, said the payment would total $29,497.

Wedding Bells Separate Pals

Field Marshal Von Blomberg of Germany, (left) no longer will review troops with his friend, Premier Mussolini of Italy, as his wedding to a "socially unfit" girl has caused his expulsion from official ranks. At the same time Chancellor Hitler named himself "super-dictator" of all Germany.

MORE RAIN PREDICTED

Dewpoint the Duck, moribund and morose, staggered mournfully into the office today.

"I was to quack you a little pome," "Sun, sun, go a way, come again some other day, little Dewpoint wants to play."

"Ain't that cute?" Undismayed by his flagrant plagiarism, or his cold reception, Dewpoint refused to be downed. He clucked another poem:

"You golfers and gardeners should well beware,

"For tomorrow there'll be more rain in the air!"

With those words, and no others, he preened his moisture-proof coat, donned his super-rubbers and waddled out.

And sure enough, the official forecast bore him out. It said: "Fair today, with frosts in the early morning. Tonight and tomorrow, showers." And there you are.

HEAVY SNOWS IN MOUNTAINS

There's an abundance of snow this week-end in most of the mountain resorts in Los Angeles, San Bernardino and Riverside counties. This report reached Santa Ana today from George Hutchinson, of the United States Division of Forestry at Corona.

"Persons enjoying snow will probably find no better time to go to the mountains than this week-end," Hutchinson said today. "The mountains were well blanketed by the storms of yesterday and the day before."

Among the retreats he recommends are Big Bear, Lake Arrowhead, Wrightwood, Idyllwild and Mill Creek canyon.

He said there may be a liberal snow blanket at a number of the Los Angeles county resorts, also. Roads to most of the resorts are cleared of snow for accessibility, he added.

Lincoln and Labor Wars Hooked Up

What would Abraham Lincoln have done about labor wars? The question may be resolved Feb. 11, when a joint committee of CIO and A. F. of L. union members and Santa Ana business men sponsor a Lincoln memorial meeting at Willard Junior High school auditorium.

J. F. Burke, former newspaper publisher now engaged in the radio business in Los Angeles, and Robert E. Crowley, Santa Ana attorney, will be the speakers. Both men are noted for their liberal tendencies.

U. S. RECALLS CHINA TROOPS

WASHINGTON. (AP)—The United States took a long step away from China today by ordering its armed forces there reduced by more than one half.

After 56 years' service, the army will cease its Chinese patrol early next month by virtue of the order announced by the state department.

The fifteenth infantry, comprising 808 officers and men, was transferred from Japanese-controlled Tientsin, North China, to Fort Lewis, Washington.

Marines alone will remain in China, and they in tanks thinned by the recent order for withdrawal of 1400 officers and men.

Two companies of marines from Peiping will take the place of the army men, leaving two marine companies in Peiping.

The withdrawal of the fifteenth infantry and the marines already ordered to come home will reduce the American forces in China to about 1800. Last month there were about 4000.

Two reasons were said reliably to account for the recall: First that because of evacuations the number of Americans needing protection had been reduced; and second, that diminishing the number of American troops in territory controlled by the Japanese would lessen the chances of dangerous incidents arising between the United States and Japan.

Enraged Whale Patrols S. F. Bay

SAN FRANCISCO. (AP)—A gigantic whale, covered with barnacles, and probably in a bad humor, was hunted today in San Francisco bay.

Captain Louis Lane, veteran San Francisco bar pilot and former whaler, said he first sighted the creature two days ago. He said whales became vicious when they found themselves trapped by accident in bays and inlets, and declared it might attack tugs and ferry boats, or smaller craft.

THREE DROWNED

GOODWATER, Ala. (AP)—Coroner Stokely Corley said today Mrs. C. S. Price drowned two of her five children and herself in a well at their farm home last night.

Accused Attacker Of Woman Held

Formal charges that he assaulted a young Anaheim woman "by means of force likely to do great bodily harm" were read to Tom Jesko, 33, 806 West Central street, Balboa, today as he was arraigned in Santa Ana justice court.

SETUP FOR BUSINESS IS FORECAST

'Little Fellow' to Get Representation

WASHINGTON. (AP)—Leaders of the "little fellows" conference agreed today to try to set up a permanent organization to keep the government advised of the small business man's needs.

Members of the committee which carried to President Roosevelt 23 conclusions reached by the noisy, two-day conference talked over with Secretary Roper the advisability of setting up a permanent organization similar to his advisory council, composed of "big" business men.

They reported an informal agreement to return here, possibly in late March or April, to try to evolve a definite plan of organization.

Mr. Roosevelt told the committee yesterday that if such an organization were formed, he felt the small business man should set it up themselves, rather than himself or a government agency naming its members.

The committeemen, headed by Fred Roth, Cleveland, Ohio, shoe man, spent an hour and a half with Mr. Roosevelt. They presented to him not only the recommendations of the general conference, but also some personal views.

JAPS DENY WAR WITH CHINA

TOKYO. (AP)—Foreign Minister Koki Hirota told the diet today the China "incident" is not a war either from the internal or international viewpoint.

"The two nations now are in a state of war but it is not a national war," Hirota answered a questioner in parliament, explaining "we especially do not claim rights as belligerents."

Although Japan has not declared formal war on China, officials have not amplified a statement by Hirota earlier this week that "warfare exists" between the two nations.

ARM FOUND ON RIVER BOTTOM

GLOUCESTER, Eng. (AP)—Dredgers recovered a handless arm today from the River Severn, adding new evidence to a mysterious saw murder.

The hand, apparently sawed off, was not found. The arm fitted the brick-weighted torso of a man which was found by fishermen in the river Thursday with its head and limbs saved off.

A new shoe found near the river was the only tangible clue.

Palm Springs Has Growing Pains

RIVERSIDE. (AP)—Palm Springs, desert spa of film notables, is growing up.

A petition was in the county clerk's office asking that Palm Springs be incorporated as a sixth class municipality, covering about 20 square miles.

The petition will be presented to the county board of supervisors Monday.

Fight Over Farm Bill Forecast

WASHINGTON. (AP)—Agriculture department opposition to last-minute changes in cotton provisions of the compromise farm bill raised the possibility today of a prolonged floor fight over the measure.

County Workers Band Together For Thrift Step

Orange county's 650 employees banded together today in a cooperative credit union to encourage thrift and lend themselves money when cash is needed. Articles of incorporation for the Orange County Employees' Credit union were on file today in County Clerk E. J. Smith's office, with nine directors named to handle organization of the cooperative.

Capital of the organization may reach $250,000, according to a clause in the articles providing for a maximum of 50,000 shares at a par value of $5 each. No capital stock is to be issued, under state law providing for formation of similar credit unions. One thousand of the 50,000 shares are called class A membership shares and carry voting privileges.

Directors named are J. Arthur Anderson, president of the Orange County Employees' Mutual Benefit association; Belle J. Spangler, Lester H. Schmelzer, Laura Joiner, Laura B. Bettis, Grace E. Lansing, Jack E. Lloyd, David E. McMillan and Lynn B. Wallace, each listed as holder of one share.

NEW HOUSING PROGRAM TO START SOON

WASHINGTON. (AP)—Federal Housing authorities, their files jammed with applications from would-be home owners who want to take advantage of the housing act, asked today for the cooperation of money lenders, manufacturers, material dealers and workmen.

In the last two weeks, officials said, "many thousands of letters and preliminary applications" have poured into FHA offices in the field. There are pending applications for mortgage insurance on more than $50,000,000 of large-scale projects.

The bill, now signed into law, is designed to encourage residential building by reducing the down payment and cutting the interest rate on loans. Government insured mortgages are provided for 90 per cent of the cost of smaller homes; 80 per cent for the larger.

The total maximum carrying charge will be 5 1/2 per cent annually. The minimum down payment on a $6000 home will be $600 and on a $10,000 home, $1400. This must be added about $200 incidental cost at the outset.

STEWART. McDonald, FHA administrator, called the terms "the most favorable in the history of our country."

"The machinery is here for the government to do its part," he said. "The success of the program in the long run, however, depends upon the wholehearted, voluntary cooperation of private and public industry."

Barkley May End Anti-Lynch Fight

WASHINGTON. (AP)—Majority Leader Barkley of Kentucky indicated today he would move to lay aside the anti-lynching bill next week.

"I am unwilling that this whole session should be wasted or consumed in futile discussion," he said.

Barkley voted against shelving the measure when southerners failed, by a 52 to 34 vote, to pigeonhole it yesterday. The vote was on a motion by Senator Glass (D., Va.) that the bill be displaced by the $14,000,000 independent appropriations measure.

Rites for Crash Victims Tomorrow

SAN DIEGO. (AP)—Memorial services for the 11 men who met death in the collision of two navy bombers Wednesday night will be held tomorrow at 4 p. m. at the naval air station chapel on North Island.

Protestant services will be conducted by Chaplains Thornton C. Miller and Edgar C. Andrews.

STRONG QUAKE PASADENA

PASADENA. (AP)—A strong earthquake about 3000 miles southeast of here was recorded at the Carnegie institution's seismological laboratory last night at 6:32:10. It was described as centering 100 miles deep, and likely to be felt over a large area, although it might not be severe at the earth's surface.

ONE KILLED IN CRASH ON 101 HIGHWAY

Fatalities Top 1937 List By Five

Death struck two widely separated blows that brought the imposing 1938 traffic fatality toll to an unlucky 13 for Orange county last night.

A Santa Ana man, hurrying home from San Diego, died instantly when his car crashed into a tree on 101 highway north of El Toro. That was less than a three hours after the To Date, 1938 driver of a gar. Killed 13 bage truck suc. To Date, 1937 cumbered in Ful. Killed 8 lerton General hospital to injuries received when he assertedly was struck by a Pacific Electric car.

There were no witnesses to the accident which took the life of John R. Stickler, 25, 506 McFadden street, Santa Ana, but he had died before two Los Angeles men saw the car, its motor still warm, smashed against a tree a mile and a half north of El Toro.

CAR SKIDDED Stickler's car apparently skidded on the wet pavement as it was coming out of a curve in 101 highway. He had been working in San Diego and was coming home to his family here when the fatal accident occurred shortly before 9:45 p. m.

Antonio Ros, 32, La Habra, was rushed to the Fullerton hospital after his garbage truck assertedly was struck by an electric car on Imperial highway at the Pacific Electric right-of-way at 2:45 p. m. yesterday. He died four hours later.

MOTHER SHOWS RECOVERY

Assault and battery charges will be filed Monday against Raymond Wallace, 23-year-old San Juan Capistrano youth accused of beating his mother, Deputy Dist. Atty. Warren Schultz announced this noon.

Mrs. Mae Wallace, 39-year-old Doheny Park woman assertedly beaten by her son during an argument last Tuesday night, showed first definite signs of improvement today as she lay in her Orange county hospital bed.

X-Rays showed Mrs. Wallace did not sustain any broken bones as feared at first, and formal charges against Raymond Wallace, her 23-year-old son, will be filed sooner than expected. He is in the county jail on a 30-day sentence for drunkenness.

Schultz and Deputy Sheriff James Workman made another trip to Doheny Park yesterday to continue their investigation of the alleged beating. The Journal learned.

Farm Road Work Likely to Cease

Orange county was faced today with discontinuance of farm-to-market road building, under the federal-state program inaugurated in 1936. Several thousands of dollars have been spent during the past two years on grading and realigning of such rural roads in the county.

The county farm bureau board of directors will not oppose the federal administration's plan to discontinue allocations for the program, they decided yesterday at their monthly meeting. Their decision was impelled, they said, by the stand of state and federal farm groups urging governmental economy in the future.

Purse Returned To Owner Minus $1000 Savings

LONG BEACH. (AP)—Elderly Mrs. E. H. Fallon lost her purse last Saturday and today got it back by mail—without the $1000.

A note inclosed, signed "two honest bums," said: "We are returning your purse and papers, but keeping the $1000 to punish you for your carelessness. We will invest it in a business and repay you later out of our earnings."

Mrs. Fallon said the money was all she and her retired husband had to live on for the next year.

U. S. Demands Navy 'Showdown' With Japan

CLAIM TOKYO IS PLANNING HUGE SHIPS

Tri-Power Campaign Against Nippon Hinted

WASHINGTON, (AP)—The United States asked Japan today whether she is building or intends to build battleships larger than 35,000 tons.

If so, a note to the Tokyo government said, the United States will build larger ships herself, but is willing to discuss limitation of their size.

Secretary Hull, announcing this action, said it was taken after consultation with Britain and France, signatories of the London naval treaty of 1936, who were taking similar steps.

The formal note presented to the Japanese government demanded a reply by Feb. 20. No reply, it said, will be regarded as an admission Japan is building ships beyond the limit and the United States will "resume full liberty of action."

The United States has 16 no-battleships in excess of 35,000 tons, in accordance with the London treaty.

Admiral William D. Leahy, chief of naval operations, told the house naval committee this week that reports had been published in Italy that Japan was building a 43,000-ton craft. The navy, he said, had been unable to confirm these reports.

Publication of the state department's note led to speculation that it was this matter which Capt. Royal E. Ingersoll, head of the navy war planning board, discussed recently with the British admiralty.

U. S. HAS PLANS FOR LARGER WARSHIPS

WASHINGTON, (AP)—The navy has plans already drafted for bigger battleships, to be brought out if the United States, Great Britain and France decide to throw overboard the present treaty limit of 35,000 tons.

It has designs, too, for 18-inch guns—larger than any war craft has ever fired—but officials indicated guardedly today it was doubtful they would be used in preference to a greater number of rifles of 16-inch bore.

A monster of about 43,000 tons displacement, armed with 12 16-inch guns, and able to slip through the present locks of the Panama canal was pictured in naval circles as the most likely American answer to any Japanese disregard of the 35,000-ton treaty.

Months probably would elapse between a decision to go ahead with bigger ships, and the actual laying of their keels. Thousands of detailed plans are required. About 12,000 were drafted last year before work started on the 35,000-ton sister ships, North Carolina and Washington.

Work is too far advanced on these two to add more than 1000 tons to their bulk, officials said.

Four other battleships have been projected for the year—two in the 1939 naval supply bill and the two President Roosevelt recommended be started before the end of 1938.

SKINNY SKRIBBLES

There is still plenty of room to accommodate me at the postoffice, but with the increasing number of patrons who use the same door to go in and get out there is an approaching risk of a squeeze play.

License plates will cost you more now, but they will not give you any more mileage than if you had bought 'em before the rise.

Fred Bamore threatens to buy me a potato peeler which works like an electric razor, with this difference: you furnish your own power. But the "doodad" has a revolving blade that does a fine piece of tonorial work with a hook on one end so you can punch the eyes out of an obstreperous tuber. And for speed—well, it's streamline, all right.

And then there was the physician who advertised that he was in business for your health.

A Los Angeles rabbi delivered an address recently on "What are we to believe?" having in mind the vast amount of propaganda which is being offered to the public. I think he's got something there, but what is I'm unable to decide. There is a lot of confusing publicity going the rounds. One thing I've found out, though, I can't stop it.

Fred Merker went to Santa Barbara not because he wanted to, but because the fellow who had the authority called a conference for that particular spot.

Paul Dale, who was my neighbor for a long time, writing risks which other folk did not want to carry, and looking over the political ramparts occasionally with favor on the administration side, decided to give up the insurance business and I lost track of him. The rain drove him in Thursday, so I found out what he was doing. He is with the Quality Cleaners and Dyers at 1333 South Main street.

Babe Imprisoned In Garret for Mother's 'Sin'

UNIONTOWN, Pa. (AP)—Attendants at the county home today cared for a 5-year-old girl who, Humane society officials charged, had been hidden away in an upstairs room of her grandmother's home since infancy.

Agent E. M. Smith of the Western Pennsylvania Humane society charged David Harris, 69-year-old farmer, and his daughter, Martha, 27, with neglect to a minor child.

Smith quoted Harris as saying the child was illegitimate and had been kept in the room as "a sort of punishment" for his daughter's "second sin."

He reported the child, Alice, crippled and undernourished, had been found tied to an old chair in a storage room of Harris' home, situated on his 270-acre farm, near Connellsville.

Reichstag meets one thing all eyes are apparent—the swift events, following War Minister Marshal Werner von Blomberg's resignation because the army considered his bride "socially impossible," have removed conservative generals from positions where they might act as brakes.

By the decrees announced yesterday, the dyed-in-the-wool Nazi Von Ribbentrop replaces the elderly and conservative Baron Konstantin von Neurath, who becomes chairman of the new secret cabinet council to advise on foreign affairs.

HITLER SUPREME

Today, Hitler himself, not a general raised in the old army traditions, is in direct control of the nation's armed forces, with a sort of deputy warlord carrying out the Fuehrer's instructions under the title "chief of the high command."

The "deputy" is Wilhelm Keitel, former staff secretary in the war ministry, who attains to cabinet rank.

IL DUCE LAUDS HITLER

ROME, (AP)—Premier Benito Mussolini today acclaimed Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler's control of Germany's foreign policy as "designed to reinforce the friendship between our two armed forces and the relations between our regimes."

Il Duce sent Hitler a telegram of congratulation, expressing "my satisfaction that the Italian people are for your excellency's assumption of effective command of all armed forces of the Reich."

Germany's government shake-up, especially Hitler's assumption of army control, found wide official favor in Italy.

Although the sweeping changes in Germany's diplomatic corps removed Ulrich von Hassell, ambassador to Rome, Italian officials said they regarded that as purely an internal matter without bearing on the Rome-Berlin axis.

TRAFFIC TOLL REACHES 13

ington Park and Conductor K. E. Leonard of Van Nuys, according to California Highway Patrolman Ray Bradfield, who investigated.

BODY DISCOVERED

Stickler's body and the wrecked car in which he met his death were discovered by O. J. Hilbert and D. Woodbury, both of Los Angeles, who summoned Officers Ben Craig and Ernie Sawyer of the highway patrol.

The body was taken to Brown and Wagner mortuary in Santa Ana, where inquest plans are pending. Coroner Earl Abbey has scheduled an inquest into Roa's death for 3:30 p. m. Monday at McAulay and Suters mortuary in Fullerton.

Another man lay near death in Orange county hospital today as the result of an accident on Road to Los Angeles and Lemon streets in Anaheim early last night.

Frank Isenfelder, 62, 1114 1/2 North Los Angeles street, Anaheim, sustained a fractured arm, six broken ribs and a serious scalp wound when he was struck by a car driven by Clarence Doctor.

Plunge apartments, Fullerton, as he asserted was crossing Lemon street 100 feet west of the crosswalk.

Doctor told officers he was following a big moving van across the intersection and had started to pass the van when Isenfelder jumped in front of his car to avoid the van.

He was taken to Anaheim sanitarium and later transferred to the county hospital.

Admiral Urges Larger Navy

NEW YORK, (AP)—A United States navy at least twice the size of Japan's in all categories was advocated today by Rear Admiral Yates Stirling, jr., U.S.N., retired.

Admiral Stirling, veteran of two American wars, said in a luncheon speech before the Foreign Policy association such a navy would cost more than two billion dollars, but, he added:

"If it will avert a war in the Pacific, or if it would come to the aid of our allies, then the price would seem insignificant."

OPPOSITION TO FDR SAID GROWING

WASHINGTON, (AP)—A year ago today President Roosevelt proposed his court reorganization bill and precipitated a momentous congressional battle.

Political effects of the long struggle which left his party ranks in congress badly split are still in almost daily evidence on Capitol hill. The breach has not healed.

Instead of the half dozen dissenters from administration policies among senate Democrats, who had never proved a problem for the leadership, there is now a big and fairly solid group of regular oppositionists.

Every really vital vote in the senate since the court bill fight has been close. The spirit of independence has spread to the house, where last session for the first time the bigger chamber voted down a key administration measure—the wage-hour bill.

Legislative echoes of the court fight still are being heard at the capitol. The senate judiciary committee now is studying several constitutional amendments and some legislation that grew out of that fight.

Committee members have forecast that a bill soon will be reported providing many new federal judges in the lower courts. Senator Hatch (D., N. M.) has offered a bill authorizing 27 new judges.

Most likely constitutional amendment to emerge from the court debate is the Norris proposal to make it easier in the future to change the constitution. A judiciary sub-committee is now holding hearings on the plan, offered during the court battle by Senator Norris (Ind., Neb.).

BANK ROBBERY NETS 4 LIVES

COLUMBUS, O. (AP)—Police recorded a $3500 bank robbery as solved today with the bloody notation—one police detective and two bandit suspects slain, four persons wounded.

Vincent Grinkovitch, of Cleveland, and a man known only as "Mac" were killed when police and four men engaged in a gun battle in a two story west side rooming house yesterday. Authorities checking with the federal bureau of investigation in an effort to identify "Mac."

Detective Robert M. Cline, 42, died in a hospital today after physicians attempted to save his life through blood transfusions. He had been wounded in the stomach.

Carl Boettcher, one of the targets of bank bullets, was in serious condition, his left lung pierced by a bullet.

SOVIET PARTY WAITS RESCUE

MOSCOW, (AP)—Colder weather today enabled members of the Soviet polar party to resume scientific work on their drifting ice floe while awaiting the arrival of rescue ships.

Greenland delayed rescue ships going to the aid of the scientists but danger of the ice floe disintegrating further was temporarily eliminated by a drop in temperature to 11 degrees (Fahrenheit) above zero. The Russians' radio report said it was snowing.

The 100 by 160 foot ice floe on which the party drifted about 1100 miles from the North Pole has practically ceased its southward movement, according to Ivan Papanin, in charge of the party.

NIAGARA SPAN IS DYNAMITED

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y. (AP)—The blast of a half-ton of dynamite shook the wrecked structure of Honeycomb bridge early today, sending the framework into four sections as it sprawled upon the Niagara river ice jam.

Tall showers of sparks shot up when the blast was set off, rewarding with a fireworks display the patience of scores of spectators who lined the brink of Niagara river gorge throughout the night awaiting the event.

It could not be immediately determined whether the dynamite had cut the collapsed span into sections which will sink easily into the 175 foot depth of the river when the ice jam breaks.

Farmer Finds Diamonds in Yard

CALVINIA, South Africa. (American Wire)—A diamond strike of the first magnitude has been reported here, and diamond prospectors are pouring into the district. The deposit was discovered last month when a farmer digging in the blue clay of his farm yard, unearthed 462 blue-white diamonds.

HAND OUT
Ray Jenkins of Scottie's mail shop, Main and Buffalo streets, was given first aid treatment by police yesterday for a severely cut hand.

Probe Hollywood White Slave Ring 'Buyers'

HOLLYWOOD, (AP)—Officers of the sheriff's vice detail today investigated reports of a white slave ring which chose victims from Hollywood's army of pretty film aspirants.

The inquiry was launched after Larry Crosby, brother and business manager of Bing Crosby, reported to Capt. Robert P. Cook that a man identifying himself as an agent connected with Crosby lured girls to his office.

There, Crosby charged, the girls were paraded, nude and scantily clad before "buyers" of the ring who masqueraded as radio and screen executives.

Crosby said irate mothers of many of the girls had registered complaints with him.

H.O. ARMSTRONG DIES AT 34

Hubert O. Armstrong, 34, well-known local man and graduate of Santa Ana schools, died yesterday at his home, 622 South Sycamore street, after an illness of two years.

Mr. Armstrong was a resident of Santa Ana for 33 years, coming here from Exeter, Mo., where he was born. He was graduated from Santa Ana High school, where he was a member of the championship high school football team of 1921. He later attended the University of California at Berkeley, where he was affiliated with Beta Kappa fraternity. He had been employed as a blue print draftsman until recently.

He is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. James E. Armstrong; three brothers, Robert J. Armstrong of Ventura, Walter K. Armstrong of Santa Ana and Leroy V. Armstrong of Inglewood; two sisters, Mrs. Mamie Mercereau of Gardena, and Mrs. Neva Arnett of Los Angeles.

Funeral services will be conducted from the Brown and Wagner Colonial chapel at 3:30 p. m. Monday, with the Rev. C. M. Aker, pastor of the Spurgeon Memorial Methodist church, officiating. Interment will follow in Fairhaven cemetery.

U. S. ENVOY TO CALL ON 'SPY'

WASHINGTON, (AP)—The Soviet government accepted today a request that a United States official be permitted to see Mrs. Ruth Marie Rubens, American citizen incarcerated in Russia on suspicion of espionage.

Charge d'Affaires Loy Henderson cabled Secretary Hull that Moscow had agreed to the long-standing American demands.

Henderson has asked that he or Second Secretary Angus I. Ward be allowed to visit Mrs. Rubens this afternoon or tomorrow.

Soviet authorities previously had informed the United States they would not permit an American diplomat to see Mrs. Rubens until after Russian police had finished investigating her case. State department officials said today that the inference is that they have now completed their investigation.

LABOR COUNCIL OUSTS CIO

SAN FRANCISCO, (AP)—Officers of the San Francisco Labor council announced today that, acting on specific instructions from A. F. of L. President William Green, the council had ousted all delegates of unions known to be affiliated with the CIO, and reported to have CIO instigation to declare allegiance to either the A. F. of L. or the CIO.

A total of 15 delegates, representing five unions, were unseated. The delegates represented the International Textile and Cordage workers, the International Garment workers, Ship Scales' union, International Amalgamated Clothing workers and International Fur workers union.

City's Largest Permit to Build For '38 Issued

Largest single building permit issued for 1938 at the city building inspector's office came in yesterday afternoon on application of H. C. Chapman, of 2324 Bonnie Brae, asking permission to erect an eight-room frame and stucco residence at 1704 Heliotrope, valued at $13,000.

The house will be 20 by 100 feet in size and of one-story construction. Allison Honer is the contractor. It is to be heated by gas furnace. Next highest-valued permit was granted last month for erection of an apartment house costing $10,000.

DIRECTORS TO MEET

The chamber of commerce directors will meet Monday noon at Daniger's cafe. Principal business to be transacted will be reading of committee reports.

Receipt in France of the news of Sedan's fall in the Franco-Prussian war in 1870 caused the downfall of Napoleon III and the proclamation of the third French republic.

WOMAN, 2 MEN MISSING WEEKS, SAFE

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP)—A woman and two men, missing in frigid Alaska for more than a month, advised friends they were safe at Seward after drifting 20 days in a disabled boat and living two weeks on mussels grubbed from rocks on an isolated island.

Mr. and Mrs. Glen Collins, formerly of Portland and Vancouver, Wash., cabled relatives they had been rescued with Ray J. James, former Washington state game director, by the steamer Starr.

The three trappers left Johnson's inlet Dec. 27. They failed to reach Seward and when no trace was found, they were given up as dead.

Their crippled craft drifted 100 miles and grounded at the mouth of Cook inlet on Pail island. Through the cold days and zero nights James and Collins worked in one-hour shifts bailing and stacking while Mrs. Collins broke sections of the boat's interior for fuel.

Anderson Will Probate Asked

Probate of the will of William E. Anderson of Orange, who died Jan. 24, was asked today in a superior court petition by Mildred A. Riggall of Orange, a daughter, and Kemper Anderson of Villa Park.

Value of the estate was said to exceed $10,000, including a ranch near Villa Park and a ranch south of Placentia, each consisting of about 10 acres, ranching property in Montana, a home in Orange, stock in the First National bank and Orange Savings bank of Orange, and other personal property.

A will, dated April 14, 1937, leaves the entire estate to the two petitioners who were named executors, and Wilbur Anderson, a son living in Honolulu.

CRASH VICTIM ASKS $11,600

A pedestrian assertedly struck down by an auto on South Main street last Aug. 8 today had filed a $11,000 damage suit in superior court.

Carl Brennecke, injured in the accident, filed suit through his attorney, M. B. Wellington, against Ira D. Armstrong, whom Brennecke blames for the accident.

Armstrong's car, the complaint alleges, struck the pedestrian as he crossed South Main street at Walnut street, carrying him for 50 feet and injuring him permanently.

Attorneys Hear Income Tax Data

Orange county attorneys heard latest wrinkles in income tax procedure yesterday afternoon from Maj. F. C. McReynolds, head of the state income tax office in Los Angeles and Mrs. Gladys Hendrix of his staff, expert on estate income tax returns.

They spoke yesterday afternoon at the Bar association's monthly meeting in Daniger's cafe, explaining procedure and operation of their office and answering questions.

S. A. Burglar Gets $25 in Loot

Burglary of Russell O. Rees' home at 1025 Lowell street early last night was reported to police today when Rees discovered loss of $10 in currency, a gold watch chain and pair of gold cuff links, an electric clock and several packages of cigars.

The house apparently was entered by unhooking a screen on a rear window. Loot was valued at $25.

Building Permits For Small Jobs

Small building permits issued the past several days from the city building inspector's office were to the following persons:

A. Shultz, four-unit garage at 510 Fruit street, costing $150; Daisy E. Peel, re-roofing on residence, 610 S. Sycamore, $432; and special Army re-roof building, 214 N. Sycamore; Frank Huntsberger, repairs, 1037 W. Second street, $62.

Twin Pianos Take Audience On 'Tour de Luxe' of Music

By BOB GUILD

From Johann Sebastian Bach to Arnold Bax in one evening is a musical tour of magnitude.

When taken on the wings of music from the twin pianos of Ethel Bartlett and Rae Robertson it is a tour de luxe—a streamlined, breath-taking flight into the realms of pure beauty.

The gifted British piano duo thrilled the largest audience yet to attend a Behmer-Wilson concert with a performance the perfection of which was exceeded only by the graciousness of the artists.

DEMANDS FOR ENCORES

Six times Mr. and Mrs. Robertson responded to demands for encores, once answering a request from the audience with their own brilliant arrangement of the familiar Strauss Blue Danube.

Their delightful concert program ran the gamut of musical expression—from the modern, impressionistic "Poisoned Fountain" of Bax to the formal Bach Sonata in E-flat major—with a perfection and ease that astounded their listeners.

Miss Bartlett, it seems, is the showman of the two, playing with a purely masculine strength and feminine nuance and intuition.

The diminutive Mr. Robertson showed himself a consummate technician playing with the utmost of ease and minimum of waste effort.

MODERN GROUP

This reviewer's palm was extended the pair for their interpretation of the modern group on their repertoire—four tours de force especially written for and dedicated to the pair. This group followed on the heels of a Saint-Saens and two Bach arrangements, and provided an excellent antidote for the formal arrangements of the Bach.

Bach's "Noel" was a brilliant juxtaposition of the modern and the ancient, temporizing with the ancient theme of peace on earth. It was followed by a brilliant futurist Polka, by Lennox Berkeley, and by Bax.

BOY, 8, DIES IN HOSPITAL

Ray Stanley Justus, jr., eight-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Stanley Justus, 811 West Sixth street, died of pneumonia yesterday in St. Joseph's hospital after a short illness.

The young lad was born in San Diego, and had resided in Santa Ana for the past two months and was attending the local schools. He is also survived by two grand parents, Mrs. J. H. Justus of Santa Ana and Mrs. J. R. Carner of Washington, D. C., and two cousins, Jack and Jimmie Kelly of Santa Ana.

The Rev. Albert Eakin Kelly, pastor of the United Presbyterian church, will conduct funeral services from the Brown and Wagner Colonial chapel at 3 p. m. tomorrow.

MATHER HEADS FORUM MEETING

W. W. Mather, Chaffey Junior college, will launch the first of the season's series of high school forums Monday night. He will speak on "Church and the State in World Affairs."

The meeting will be held in the auditorium of the Spurgeon school, 210 West Cubbon at 7:30. All are invited, and urged to take part in the discussion.

DEADLINE DRAWN ON AUTO PLATES

It's too late now to worry about securing those 1938 California vehicle license plates at the city hall before the deadline. Time expired at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon, but Orange county owners of 20,000 motor cars and trucks who did their shopping early needn't worry about paying a penalty.

Those persons are immune from doubled registration fee and the 50 per cent additional vehicle license assessment which will be imposed upon motorists who forgot to visit the city hall.

This temporary branch office of the California Department of Motor Vehicles collected nearly $120,000 during the month it was in operation here.</

RED CROSS ISSUES PLEA FOR FUNDS

Millions of men, women and children in war-torn China are in dire need of medical supplies to prevent plagues and illness and the Red Cross in Orange county is urging residents to contribute to the cause which is endorsed by Red Cross units in Great Britain, Australia, Sweden and other countries.

No quota has been set by the Santa Ana chapter of the organization which is serving the southern section of Orange county, according to Mrs. Laura R. Warren. Thus far only $125 has been collected by this section of the organization.

Orange has raised ten dollars towards a quota of $100 and Anaheim's chapter has received only seven dollars in donations thus far. The Northern Orange county agency has taken in no money.

Mrs. Warren points out that on several occasions in the past when disaster has threatened the United States the Chinese Red Cross has contributed liberally to this country. During the floods in Eastern United States last spring, the Chinese division of the Red Cross immediately sent 100,000 yen to America to assist the storm refugees here.

REALTORS HEAR SUCCESS TALK

An inspirational talk on "Leadership for 1938" highlighted yesterday's meeting of the Santa Ana realty board in the Rossmore cafe. The talk was by Harry Smith, representative of the National Success University of Washington, D. C.

Although he declared 95 per cent of the people are failures, Smith said the comparatively few real successes all were personally mentally inspired and knew how to make their minds harmonize with the people who worked with them. Domestic harmony was another of Smith's keys to success.

"The only limitation on new ideas is your mental rut," the speaker told the realtors. President Ray Goodell conducted the meeting.

At a business session proceeding the talk, the board approved appointment of a committee to study proposed rezoning of the Santa Ana fire districts.

Bartholomae Loses Fight Over Lost View

William A. Bartholomae, Jr., wealthy Newport harbor yachtman, today had lost in another effort to restrain Dr. Howard W. Seager, secretary of the city planning commission, from asserting cutting off the view from Bartholomae lots on Balboa island.

Superior Judge H. C. Ames, who last month denied Bartholomae an injunction against Dr. Seager, yesterday afternoon denied a plaintiff's motion for new trial.

Bartholomae, who is president of the company of which he is president, claimed proceedings of the city planning commission at Newport Beach and the city council were insufficient when Dr. Seager, secretary of the commission, was granted permission to erect a building abutting on the property line instead of set back from the building. Bartholomae claimed the building depreciated value of the two lots his oil company owns, which adjoin the new Seager building.

Confab Arranged For River Work

A river spreading conference is to be held in Riverside Feb. 25 before a group of army engineers. It was announced yesterday at the County Farm bureau directors' meeting.

Directors, believing matters of importance will be taken up at this time, urge members interested to attend.

New Members Join Builders

New members voted into the Builders' Exchange recently were announced today by Secretary G. W. Bassett.

They are: Nylis P. Hurd, Furniture Service company, a Blanding nursery official and W. L. Sibley, all Santa Ana business men or firms.

Builders Plan Golf Tournament

A golf tournament among members of the Orange County Builders' exchange will be staged within the next month.

Chairman of the golfing committee is Dick Emison, assisted by Sid Russell and R. C. McMillan, all recently appointed.

CARD OF THANKS
We wish to thank the many friends of my dear sister, Minnie McLellan, for their expression of sympathy in our bereavement.

Sheppard Aids Indian Bill

California Indians will receive beneficial legislation for which they have worked for 85 years because of a bill introduced in Congress by Harry R. Sheppard, (D), Santa Ana's own 19th Congressional district. Sheppard heads the sub-committee which reported out the bill recently. It will settle, if passed, the long-standing dispute between Indians and white men over California lands.

Jane Addams Success Story

By DALE CARNEGIE

If you speak of a successful person you mean one who has made money. The other day I went to Hull House, Chicago. This is what I learned.

Jane Addams was left motherless at six. So frail was she that the doctors told her father she would not live.

Fortunately, Jane Addams had other ideas about it. Dale Carnegie

One day as she rode through the slum district of an Illinois town, she was shocked by the misery she saw. Her face taut, she made a little silent self-promise that she would help the unfortunate.

Her friends gasped. Until that very morning, they told each other she had always seemed, though not hale and hearty, at least sound and well-balanced.

HULL HOUSE BOUGHT
A man named Hull had once built a mansion that was now a warehouse and the town residence of a family. He had moved in, fixed it up, and invited the poor to come and share it.

But the boys of the neighborhood were suspicious of the ways of the rich. They began to heave bricks.

CRILL NAMED TO STATE POST

J. W. Crill, of Garden Grove, was elected state delegate of the Orange County Farm Bureau at the monthly meeting of the board of directors yesterday in Orange. Crill succeeds R. J. McFadden, resigned.

A. D. Smiley of Garden Grove was named by the executive committee, on request of the directorate, to supervise membership work during the next three months. Smiley is Farm Bureau treasurer.

Announcement was made that John Ostrman, of Santa Ana, had been reelected chairman of the forestry department; V. C. Heil, of Snelzter, reelected chairman of the beet department, and Ivan Harper, of Talbert, named to chairman of the bean department succeeding L. E. Barry.

Labor Topic of Farm Center Talk

Labor will be the topic of a talk Mrs. Bessie Ochs, executive director of the Neutral Thousands, will present before members of the foothill Farm center in the Villa Park school hall Thursday, Feb. 10, at 6:30 p. m.

Following her speech a general discussion period will be conducted. Mrs. J. A. Porter is to present a report of the last meeting of the directorate and motion pictures of local farm center members will be shown by Eric Eastman, San Diego county farm advisor.

Members are urged by Mrs. H. H. Gardner, chairman, to make reservations by Wednesday noon. Guests are cordially invited.

Drive to Lessen Farm Accidents

William Henley of Yorba Linda, chairman of the Farm bureau highway committee, outlined a plan before directors of the organization yesterday to secure cooperation in reducing highway and farm accidents.

He pointed out that concerted action in reduction of farm accidents will eventually reduce workers' compensation rates to farmers.

PICNIC HEAD
R. W. Hull was appointed yesterday by the Orange County Farm bureau directorate to make arrangements for the annual picnic, Saturday, May 14. He will choose his assistants later.

DRUNK DRIVING
C. R. McCollum, 58, 1518 West Second street, was arrested on a drunk driving charge after a minor auto accident at First and Shelton street yesterday afternoon.

STOLEN BIKE
A bicycle belonging to Billy Squires was stolen from in front of his home at 2007 Rousselet street yesterday morning.

PARK RELIEF PROJECT DUE TO CLOSE

One of the oldest government relief projects in the county will be closed Feb. 8 when WPA employees bring to a conclusion work on the Santiago Creek park.

Improvement on this landmark was opened by the government approximately three years ago under the old SERRA, according to City Engineer J. L. McBride. At various times the project has employed more than 200 men in constructing tennis courts, grading, planting trees and other activities.

When the SERRA was replaced by the WPA, work was continued under the new governmental unit. Sometime ago the federal agency set a time limit on the work with the agreement that no further government funds would be furnished on the present project after Feb. 8. At present only 20 men are employed. Santa Ana sponsors the project.

EXCHANGE LISTS 9 COMMITTEES

Nine Orange County Builders' Exchange committees were announced today by officials of the organization as follows:

Publicity—William Tway, Pete Cooley, W. F. Sorenson; arbitration—C. H. Chapman, A. H. Stowell; building code—Charles O. Oldfield; audit—William Tway, William Dean, C. Gilmore Ward, Stanley Ackerman; legislative—C. M. Gilbert, Jasper Farney; apprenticeship—George W. Young, Thompson, Mans, Dewey Callahan; membership—Charles E. Bressler, C. H. Garner, Al Foster, William Dean, Dewey Callahan, Fred Merker, Ray M. Taylor; general program—Ray M. Taylor; golf—Dick Emison, Sid Russell and R. C. McMillan.

Even Then They Get Their Pictures In the Papers

Col. S. H. Finley, F. M. Robinson, J. P. Greeley, F. P. Nickley and R. W. Williams—known citizens are among the county officers whose pictures gained front page play-up in the Orange County Herald of Nov. 14, 1901.

This particular issue of the old Herald was brought to light today by L. F. Harvey, superintendent of mails at the Santa Ana postoffice, who was seeking some historical lodge data.

Finley at the time held the position of county surveyor; Robinson was tax collector; Greeley was superintendent of schools; Nickley was chairman of the board of supervisors and Williams was district attorney.

This and other copies of the paper are the property of Mrs. Maed Grouard, Harvey's daughter-in-law.

City Collects $70 in Fines

Traffic court business boomed in Santa Ana yesterday when Judge J. G. Mitchell collected $70 in speeding fines from 10 motorists.

Those fined: Newton R. Shoemaker, Santa Ana (speeding and boulevard stop), $10; Andrew R. Mills, Garden Grove, $8; Vernon Schacht, Long Beach, $8; Ray Caigneau, Long Beach, $8; Asa Casey, Irvine, $8; Juan R. Loquico, Santa Ana, $8; Raymond E. Cooper, Venice, $8; Gordon A. Ellis, Los Angeles, $6, and James H. Round, Los Angeles, $6.

Jesus Guerrero, Irvine, asked for time to pleaded on a reckless driving charge and the case was set for 2 p. m. Monday.

Want Money? Buy An Avocado Grove

There's a comfortable income for ranchers owning excellent avocado groves. Farm Advisor H. E. Wahlberg told directors of the Orange County Farm bureau yesterday.

Presenting data from an avocado cost production study recently completed by the advisory, Wahlberg pointed out there was a large variation in returns from the groves studied. The lowest ten orchards noted by the study sustained an average loss of $53 per acre.

Increase in Beet Growing Advised

Sugar beet growers have a surer source of income than bean producers, W. M. Cory of the Orange County Farm advisory told members of the Farm Bureau yesterday.

He recommends increased interest in beet production, stating experience of the past year showed beets were more profitable than beans. Furthermore, he advises ranchers who can use their land for either purpose to change from beans to beets.

Bureau Praises Training School

The Orange County Farm Bureau directorate yesterday praised the committee in charge of the recent three-day officers' training camp school.

The committee in charge of the event was headed by J. W. Crill, who was assisted by H. J. Hinrichs and Frances E. Liles. John Kennedy of Anaheim and Mrs. S. W. Stanley, acted in the capacities of instructor and parliamentarian, respectively.

Assault Suspect Admits Guilt

Donald H. Savage, admitting an assault with intent of rob J. P. Hartwell on Jan. 19, today awaited a probation hearing Feb. 18.

Savage pleaded guilty before Presiding Superior Judge James L. Allen yesterday afternoon through his court-appointed attorney, Roger Dutton of Anaheim, and asked probation.

Through error, a Journal writer in Friday's paper stated that the Ted Cook-George Hurrell photographic exhibition is on display at 741 So. Grand street, Los Angeles. The correct address is the Chouinard school, 741 Grandview.

I Just Found Out

Walk Ornaments

Fossilized animal tracks walking right up to your front door... For $40 a ton, you could add that distinctive feature to the new house you may be planning to build.

Track-covered slabs of Arizona sandstone are just one of the 15-odd kinds of ornamental stones on display at Santa Ana's only rock quarry, where rocks would be as cheap as dirt if they didn't have to be hauled several hundred miles.

A big percentage of the prospective customers at R. O. Todd's unique establishment on South Main street discount the hauling item, figure they should be able to get natural rocks far cheaper than man-made concrete. Though the average price of $15 a ton for ornamental stone discourages some, however, more and more people are using the stuff for fish-ponds, patios, walks and backyard fountains.

Major reason for increased ornamental use of stones: A boom in Monterey, English and colonial-style architecture.

Arizona sandstone is most frequently used stone, comes from the Grand Canyon country by rail. Because of the distance it travels, sandstone is one of the most expensive ornamental rocks bought by the ton.

A ton will go farther than a ton of cheaper rock, though, because sandstone can be split to quarter-inch slabs. Splitting, an art in itself, is done with a chisel and hammer along distinguishable seams or grains.

Some rocks would break before they'd split, though an experienced stone-mason can tell by looking at one which way it will split. Main advantage of sandstone is that it splits on a smooth surface, is flat enough for walks or patios. In actual practice, it's usually used in slabs from a half-inch thick on up, principally because thinner ones would break too easily.

It was pure accident that made Todd Santa Ana's only rock importer. Hit by depression some seven years ago, he conceived the idea of making trips to Arizona, bringing back cactus plants to sell. Then he started picking up desert rocks on his way home, exhibiting them in the cactus shop.

People finally started buying more rocks than cactus, so he junked the cactus venture, concentrated on ornamental stones, now keeps a stock of about 150 tons on hand constantly.

Todd gets nearly all rock but Arizona sandstone himself. He has two big trucks, makes trips out to the desert area once or twice a week, comes back with 50-ton shipments each time.

He and a partner in Arizona have a federal lease on a big plot near the Grand Canyon, another lease with a private ranch nearby. The partner loads freight cars, Todd receives them and hauls some of them to rock quarries in Berkeley, Oakland and San Diego.

No. 2 item in the Todd stock is tufa-rock, a porous, light-weight number from the Death Valley area. It absorbs water like a sponge, is used by numerous nurseries to keep such plants as begonias, ferns, etc., healthy, because water evaporating from the tufa makes air humid.

So porous plants can be planted and grown on top of it, the sand rock was first introduced commercially by Todd, he believes. A local engineer suggested it to him, and he started improving it, claims the only tufa he's seen is that which he's hauled.

Rock quarries' biggest competitors ironically are their customers. Many come "window-shopping," try to find where the rock came from and take a Sunday trip over to the spot to bring some home themselves.

That's because rock is free some places, and customers occasionally figure the outing would make their traveling expenses worth while.

Todd, consequently, keeps a few secrets to himself, won't say where he gets some of his better rocks. One nurseryman recently spent two weeks in the Death Valley region, still didn't find the tufa rock he'd seen at the local quarry.

The word "quarry" isn't an accurate description of a rock-distributor's business, because only part of the rocks are actually quarried. The rest are surface rocks, picked up wherever they're found.

Tufa, for instance, is a surface stone, while sandstone is a quarried rock. It has to be pried out of the ground with bars, can't be quarried by blasting like certain other kinds of rough-rock, since dynamite would break it up too much.

Reason sandstone is so easily split along the seam probably is because it was formed by ocean tides which left one layer of sand to harden, then deposited another layer with the next high-tide. Animal tracks—now fossilized—apparently were put there between tides. Todd has

TODAY'S GOOD DEED
BRYN MAWR, Pa.—Two policemen here did their daily good deed—and put two women in the hospital.

It seems the ladies' car was stalled at the top of a hill and the policemen gave it a friendly push, just a little one.

The automobile careened down the incline, crashed into an electric light pole, snapped two high tension wires and plunged the neighborhood in darkness.

The crestfallen cops took the women to a hospital.

"O" IS FOR ODD
BOSWELL, Ind.—Mr. and Mrs. William Flynn have named their tenth son Oddie.

There's nothing odd about that except that all nine of the lad's brothers also have names beginning with "O"—Oral, Odie, Otho, Ovie, Orval, Otis, Oscar, Oliver and Omer.

NOTICE
CHICAGO—Abe Jacobs locked up his fur shop and posted a neat red and blue sign on the door, reading: "This place will be closed the first half of February. Gone on my yearly vacation."

But it was only an invitation to burglars, who battered a hole in the vault and made off with furs Jacobs valued at $5633.

HOT FOOT
LINCOLN, Neb.—Victor Pawloski, chairman of the Farwell village board, put his foot into it and, oh my, how it hurt!

He tried to stomp out of fire in a waste receptacle at the state treasurer's office. His foot stuck in the container, and the flames shot up his trouser leg. Office aides carried water in their hands from a basin and extinguished the flames before Pawloski was burned severely.

Farmers to See Own Movie Films

Members of the Anaheim Farm Center will be the principal characters in a motion picture to be shown by Eric Eastman, San Diego Farm advisor, at the meeting of the organization next Tuesday evening at 6:30 o'clock in the Anaheim high school cafeteria.

The first reel which Eastman will present is to be pictures of local farm center people, followed by travelogue of Germany. Principal speaker of the evening is to be Harold Wahlberg, Orange county farm advisor.

A. J. Schulte will present the director's report. A semi-potluck dinner is to be served.

about 100 slabs with fossilized tracks on them.

Though priced by the ton, most rock is sold by the number of square feet it will cover. Average ton of sandstone will "pave" 150 square feet, and it would require around 50 tons for the exterior of a small rock house.

Orders have ranged from 500 to 600 pounds, about the amount necessary for a fireplace, to 100 tons at the local quarry.

Though his assortment already includes 15 kinds of stone, Todd is always prospecting for other numbers, frequently takes side trips to the desert. He plans a prospecting trip to New Mexico this summer.

Remember this thing, people? It ran here for quite a while. Now, the boss says it might run again, if we're deluged with letters, telegrams, subscriptions, blank checks—anything but cabbages and dead cats.

All that's necessary, he says, is for this department to be deluged. Anything, I'm thinking, over three screams for revival of Brickdust probably would bring action. How about it?

And remember, lay off those dead cats!

ROTARIANS HEAR TALK CHINA WAR

SAN JUAN CAPISTRANO. — Members and guests of the Rotary club at their meeting on Wednesday under the direction of H. N. Patterson listened to an interesting analysis of the Chinese-Japanese war situation by Harold J. Rounds, secretary of the international committee of the Y. M. C. A.

The speaker has spent 10 years in the Orient and is familiar with his subject from first hand contact.

Speaking of the probable effect of the war upon the United States, he said this country is almost certain to be affected to a great extent by the outcome of the war, either economically if the Chinese are successful or in a military way should the Japanese be victorious. In his opinion the great bulkiness of the Chinese nation will prove a severe stumbling block to the Japanese in eventually conquering the country.

The next meeting will be in charge of Paul H. Demaree.

TOWNSEND NEWS, VIEWS

By WALTER R. KORB

"In the study of the history of nations, one is impressed with the fact that people who live in times of great changes are not fully conscious of them, nor are they able to interpret what those changes mean or portend. The Romans watched the growing unrest of the host of slaves within their borders, but were heedless of the danger it spelled until finally the slaves joined forces with the first invading host and the great empire fell."

"We Americans have dwelt likewise in an area of momentous change and one which too few have been wise and farsighted enough to see. We have hailed the machine as a blessing and were proud of the achievement and progress it characterized, but we have lived while it wrought grave and momentous changes in the economic structure of our civilization."

"We are faced with vexing problems, chief of which is the lopsided distribution of purchasing power which has come about as a direct result of the machine, together with the seasonal and quantity production which is a logical outgrowth of its use. We have spent a great deal of money in experiments, and now find ourselves little better off than when we first faced the grave emergency."

"The Townsend plan is unlike any of these emergency remedies which have been tried and found wanting. It is a new and different from old conceptions as is the machine-made emergency itself. And unlike these temporary remedies, it is by its very nature a continuous and permanent remedy, continuously supplying that thing which the machine has taken away—wide spread and sustained purchasing power among the masses of the people."

"The Townsend plan has encountered opposition just as all new ideas have been fought by those who cling so stubbornly to the tenets of old beliefs, but a new and modern necessity is driving us, whether we like it or not, to that point where we must accept and apply a new and logical remedy. Increasing economic and social problems need not dismay us. They are but serving to hasten the time when the Townsend plan will be accepted and welcomed even by those who deride it now."—By Dr. Francis E. Townsend.

The above editorial written by the Townsend Founder in the Jan. 31 issue of The Townsend Weekly and summarized the situation existing in the nation so well I thought it worth giving to those of my readers who do not take the Weekly.

Don't forget that The Townsend Players from Costa Mesa directed by Mrs. Beulah Ferguson, an accomplished actress of much experience are playing in Santa Ana Townsend hall at 8 o'clock tonight. An admission charge of 25 cents will be made at the door. Everyone who has already heard this group in one or more of their several appearances in Orange county advises anyone who don't want to laugh to stay at home but if you like to laugh until your sides ache then attend this play. You will be surprised and pleased at the dramatic ability which the cast will display. T. Dunstan Collins will have his N.Y.A. orchestra in the hall to give a concert while the audience is gathering. Townsend hall is located at 509 West Fourth street.

Dr. R. M. Carrigan, former Townsend speakers' bureau manager at Los Angeles will be the speaker for Santa Ana club No. 2 at 7:30 p. m. next Monday evening in Townsend hall at 509 West Fourth street. Dr. Carrigan has been in Santa Ana before as a Townsend speaker and is capable and informed. He will bring a good message and should be heard by a large audience.

GARDEN GROVE FETES P. T. A.

GARDEN GROVE. — Founding of the Parent-Teachers movement 41 years ago was celebrated by the Garden Grove Grammar school association at the meeting Thursday afternoon at the Washington school. Mrs. Elva Hunt, president of the association in 1922-23, told of the history and founding of the organization.

A skit dealing with the first meeting of the founders prepared by Mrs. L. M. Maurer was entered by Cora Mae Hill, Betty Roderick and Anita Mae Hardy. Other past presidents of the association were introduced by program chairman and vice president, Mrs. A. L. Schneider. They were Mrs. William Dales, Mrs. W. A. Gill and Mrs. E. R. Schneider. Mrs. Allan Goddard as guest speaker reviewed "The Autobiography of Howard Pyle" by Abbott.

Mrs. W. E. Sullivan with 22 "Peace" quotations won the prize offered for the member bringing the greatest number. Mrs. Pauline Merchant led the flag salute; the devotional chairman, Mrs. Victor Laird, read a Scripture selection and poem.

Mrs. Elva Hunt presided at Founders' day tea served by a committee of second and third grade mothers, headed by Mrs. Jack Reed. Another past president, Mrs. William Dales, cut the birthday cake.

Malcolm of the high school, teaching. They all hope to vote at our next election.

The El Toro Woman's club was entertained in the home of Mr. Raymond Prothro Wednesday, with Mrs. John Taylor as co-hostess. Visitors present were the Rev. and Mrs. Softly and Mrs. Mary Jardene of Orange, Mr. and Mrs. Crawford of Santa Ana, Mrs. Catherine Errota, Mrs. Mary Ustariz and Mrs. Foster Prathers of El Toro. The club will meet in March. Mr. and Mrs. Crawford showed talking moving pictures, and Rev. Softly gave a short talk on the history of St. George's Episcopal church here in El Toro, which was built in 1891 by W. H. Keating, D. Whiting and 12 others.

Rev. Softly revealed hopes of making the church and the 5-acre olive grove into a permanent

PHILATHELIANS ENTERTAINED

GARDEN GROVE. — Mrs. Nina Knapp assisted by Mrs. Ella Hoganson entertained members of the Philatelic Sunday school class of the Baptist church for the monthly social meeting Thursday night.

During a brief business session opening with devotions by the president, Mrs. Myrtle Cockerham, plans were made for the class to visit the Planetarium at Griffith park. The remainder of the evening was given over to games which were directed by Mrs. Clara Lou Keech and Mrs. Maline Faires. Mrs. Pearl Briggs was a guest, others present being Mesdames Bertha Allen, Ethel Echols, Maude Schumacher, Blanche Darling, Jennie Ploughman, Pearl Du Fraix, Grace Fury and Miss Dorothy Knapp.

Two Plead Guilty To Robbery Count

Robert E. Elliott and Robert W. Easton pleaded guilty today to one charge of burglary, asked probation, and awaited arraignment next Friday on a second similar charge.

They pleaded guilty before Presiding Superior Judge James L. Allen to a charge of burglarizing a service station at 1302 South Main street, and will be arraigned next week on charges of a similar crime in Olinde Jan. 22.

Father Arraigned On Non-Support

Arthur Lee Caster was arraigned in superior court today on charges he refused to support his 7-year-old daughter. Caster was arrested in Orange and held to the higher court after preliminary examination. Fred Forgy was appointed to act as his attorney.

LAND OWNERS SPEAK UP IN CLEMENTE

SAN CLEMENTE. — A new angle has been injected into the somewhat complicated political plot in San Clemente.

A group of citizens has announced the formation of a Property Owners association which will take an active part in the coming councilmanic election. There are 46 names on the membership list, according to one of the backers of the movement, and others are constantly being added.

In answer to a question as to the objects of the organization, it was stated that the association deems it essential that only persons who are themselves property owners shall be members of the city council. They will insist that city jobs be given to local people with the preference to property owners so far as it shall be possible. A reduction in city expenditures also will be demanded to offset the recent raise in the tax rate.

A meeting is to be called in a few days to complete the organization and to formulate plans for the coming campaign. There will be four council vacancies to fill at the spring election, the terms of Dan Mulherton, Henry Fate, A. T. Smith and David I. Stoddard expiring in April. None of these incumbents have announced their intention to run again so it may be necessary for the association to select its own candidates.

Several names of persons have been suggested to head the new association and at the coming meeting one of these will be chosen for that position.

Grangers Enjoy Pot-Luck Meal

GARDEN GROVE. — Grange members gathered at the Woman's clubhouse for a pot-luck supper before their regular meeting, Thursday evening with members of the Home Economics section in charge of the supper.

The program included a talk by the Tustin master, Ralph Allen on "Land Conservation," vocal solos by Miss Beth Lompe of Wintersburg accompanied at the piano by Mrs. L. M. Gardner and a skit by Mrs. Charles George and Mrs. W. H. Stennett, depicting work of the Home Economics section.

A report was made of a meeting of the Home Economics group at the home of Mrs. H. W. Christensen, Wednesday for the purpose of making dish towels and table cloths for the order.

Parking Problem Faced by Brea

BREA. — Problems of parking on Pomona avenue, the state highway through Brea, occupied the time of the Brea city council Wednesday night. Because of the increasing use of the street, and regulations of the state highway department, cars will park parallel. The council does not like the idea.

To offset this arrangement there would be necessary a four-foot setback of all business buildings. The problem has not been solved.

W. C. Churchill was retained as building inspector under the new code, adopted as the uniform code, at the meeting. Mayor W. D. Shaffer presided. Elmer Guy, city attorney, was unable to attend because of illness.

Relief Corps Holds Meeting

GARDEN GROVE. — Meeting Thursday with their new president, Mrs. Jennie Lewis, members of the Woman's Relief corps devoted the afternoon and evening to making a layette to be used in relief work. A pot-luck menu was served at the supper hour.

Members attending were Mrs. Evelyn Scofield, Loretta Ferris, Clara Olson, Bertha Collins, Betty Baldwin, Nellie Dunsen, Martha Lou Koffolis, Mary Clark, Misses Mabel Head, Helen and Kathryn Claes and one guest Mrs. Martha Watts of Minneapolis.

Cypress 'Gossip' Members Meet

CYPRESS. — Members of the "Gossip club," a newly organized group of young matrons, held their first meeting Wednesday afternoon in the home of Mrs. Glen Miser. Present were Mrs. John Lukens, Mrs. Dave Weber, Mrs. Vern Norland, Mrs. George Costa, and Mrs. Richard Carr.

Texas Youths Get 6 Months in Jail

Ernest Griffith and Al H. Deitrich, Texas youths who admitted driving a car without the owner's consent, must spend six months in jail, then return to their home state for three years' probation.

They had pleaded guilty to a charge of taking a car belonging to H. D. Polhamus last Dec. 27.

LUNCHEON GUESTS

CYPRESS. — Mrs. LaRue White entertained a group of friends at a luncheon home Sunday. Present were Mrs. Otto Switzer, Mrs. C. M. Brown, Mrs. J. H. Cester and Mrs. M. M. Carpenter.

PHILATELIC CLUB TO HOLD MEET

HUNTINGTON BEACH. — The Philatelic club will hold its regular monthly dinner in Huntington Beach Thursday night at 7 o'clock. A short talk on "Collecting from Odd Countries" will be given by Geo. E. Higgins, president of the club, who will illustrate his talk with pages from his own collection of odd issues.

The meeting will be followed by an old fashioned "swapfest" to which members and guests are requested to bring their duplicate stamps and trade them for others they need. This is to be a feature at all future meetings.

All persons interested in collecting and studying the postage stamps of the various governments are cordially invited to attend. Reservations may be made by notifying the secretary, H. M. Hepburn, Box 28, Huntington Beach.

CHAPTER 26
Jim stepped back and held the door open. Merrie trailed in. The apartment was like thousands in New York. One room, meagerly furnished.

A figured rug, worn in spots. A hard, uglyavenport on an equally hard, ugly chair to match.

A table and two straight chairs. The only item which differentiated the room from the other thousands was a set of bookshelves, crammed with imposing volumes. Opposite two windows a closet door stood partially open.

A bed lurked there in the half dark. It stood upright in a waiting posture, as if ready to pounce.

The place was forlorn. As Merrie stood uncertainly in the center of the room she heard the drip of water from a dark, inside bathroom.

W. C. Churchill was retained as building inspector under the new code, adopted as the uniform code, at the meeting. Mayor W. D. Shaffer presided. Elmer Guy, city attorney, was unable to attend because of illness.

He looked at her without speaking, she dropped her bag and slowly held out her hands to him. Palms upward, her fingers opened and closed in a little gesture of invitation. He took one step toward her and stopped, shaking his head.

"What do you want?" he asked hostilely. Hostilely to hide any tenderness.

"I want you to put your arms around me," she whispered pleadingly.

He laughed scornfully, and her hands dropped as if he had struck her.

"Why?" he asked brutally.

"Can't you endure it that one man is able to withstand your charms? That one man sees your pretty little soul?"

"My soul isn't pretty," she flung, stung by his tone. She twisted her hands wretchedly. "Let me tell you about everything, Jim. Then maybe you'll understand."

"I won't listen to your excuses and explanations," he said. "I only know that you're not to be trusted."

"You gave me a promise and broke it so quickly that— Oh, Merrie— isn't there a spark of truth in you?"

"A little thing like a promise stand in your way."

He sighed. "Rawson is your kind, Merrie. I'm not. You're a humming bird and I'm nothing but a stodgy old owl. But a wise old owl from now on, you can depend on that."

"You don't know the worst thing that happened, Jim. I got a letter from the bank—"

"Saying that you had overdrawn your account," he broke in. "To anyone with an ounce of intelligence it was the obvious result of your mad spending."

"But don't you see? I have to make more money—"

"Yes, I see. I see clearly that a girl like you would react to such an emergency exactly as you did."

"Well then—" he said dubiously.

All the hurt fury he had controlled since Merrie's coming poured out in a stream of tempestuous words.

"Perhaps you don't know that thousands of girls in the city make their living decently. You chose to parade your beauty, to deliberately arouse desire in men's dirty minds."

"You sold yourself out for a few dollars. My steady voice was like the lash of a whip. You're cheap, Merrie. Drake. You're made of yourself some thing a decent man wouldn't accept as a gift."

Merrie picked up her expensive little evening bag. With bent head she walked to the door. And then, as always, defiance flicked at her drooping spirits.

"Why?" he asked brutally.

"Can't you endure it that one man is able to withstand your charms? That one man sees your pretty little soul?"

"My soul isn't pretty," she flung, stung by his tone. She twisted her hands wretchedly. "Let me tell you about everything, Jim. Then maybe you'll understand."

"I won't listen to your excuses and explanations," he said. "I only know that you're not to be trusted."

"You gave me a promise and broke it so quickly that— Oh, Merrie— isn't there a spark of truth in you?"

FULLERTON APPLAUDED FOR PLAY

FULLERTON. — Interest in the tragedy presented by the sophomore drama students of the Fullerton Junior college drew an attendance from all schools of Orange county Thursday afternoon, and is to be repeated tonight for the general public at the auditorium.

The production of Maxwell Anderson's "Mary of Scotland" was a change from the usual light drama presented by Mrs. Esther Culp Litchfield and her classes, and was received with unusual interest by the capacity audience of students.

The play concerned "Mary of Scotland" as a young girl attempting to live her own life against many handicaps.

The parts are played by June Massey as Mary Stuart, Queen of Scots; Robert West as John Knox; Don La Fon as James Stuart, Earl of Moray; Bruce Mackay as James Hepburn; Earl of Bothwell, the one protector of the young queen.

Others from the school, representative of the many communities the college enrolls, are Tom Clements, Byron Slocum, Maurice Lone, Willard Summers, Robert Beat, Katherine Collins, Kathleen Cunningham, Ella Mae Blackburn, Maureen Beddow, Dillard Boyce, Dina Winters, Louis Wessels, Willard Summers, Lyle Hess, Don La Fon, Harold McNurlin, Lyle Blystone, Joe Spitzer, Earl Allison, Richard Werner and Byron Slocum.

Earl S. Dysinger received his usual ovation for the usual stage effects managed by him and the student stage crew, while Grover Cole, costume designer, and Mrs. Earl Richards and her staff of WPA workers in the Orange county renovating unit, were praised for their service in making the costumes. With the one exception of the kilts worn by Don La Fon, which were loaned by George Henry of Anaheim, all the costumes were made by the unit under Mrs. Richards.

The music tonight will be organized numbers as preludes, played by William Hampton of Fullerton.

For the moment Merrie Drake was the hottest spot in Manhattan. Just how long her popularity would endure was, of course, a question, but several moving picture scouts among the guests said much.

At least it said that her fame was far flung.

SNAPPY REMARKS
Curt arrived and found Merrie playing cigarette girl. With a strap around her neck she carried the tray and hilariously peddled her wares.

She sold more cigarettes in 15 minutes than the little girl who followed in her wake, managed to get rid of in an evening.

Tiring of this, Merrie made the rounds of the tables with a waiter from the bar. She laughed and flirted and made snappy remarks. She rested on the knees of delighted gentlemen and brought forth the little table covered for Merrie. He was all adoring attention. There was no need for Harvey tonight, no need for a stooge.

The male diners waited, as a man, to shout their daises across the littered tables. The floor show was but endured while they waited.

"Merrie," Curt asked, "why did you move to that terrible dump?"

He wasn't eating a thing, in fact he was drinking but moderately. "Crimson spots" burned on his white cheek bones. When he lighted a cigarette the blaze flickered dangerously.

BORING
"For the town's sensation to live in a place like that," he continued, "it's ridiculous. Why'd you do it, Merrie?" Obviously he was making conversation.

"It sounds silly but I was trying to hide."

"Hide? What from?"

"It's terribly boring to be on dress parade all the time, Curt. Merrie too, was making conversation. "I wanted a little privacy."

"I don't blame you," jerkily. "Perhaps," with a sidelong smile. "I'm almost sorry I changed my mind last night."

"Really, darling?" His mind jumped ahead. Perhaps the mind powered car might not be needed. If he could catch Slim—

Perhaps dangerous proceedings might be avoided. "Do you mean it, sweetheart?" he asked fatuously.

"I think so." She nodded slowly without raising her eyes. "Tonight, Merrie?" feverishly. She tried to nod again but instead she shook her head.

"When?" breathlessly. He looked at Merrie. She was a gorgeous little thing and she had a gorgeous bank account.

ODDS AND ENDS

By PAUL WRIGHT

Fullbacks like Les McLennan aren't uncovered every day, and it was a sad blow to Santa Ana Jaycee's 1938 football hopes when the Dons' co-captain elected departed this week for Washington state.

It may develop that the other co-captain, Johnny Joseph, the all-conference end, will be named sole leader for the squad, but it is likely that Bill Cook will conduct another election to determine McLennan's successor.

Art Heinisch, the big Minnesotaan who enrolled this week and bolstered the Dons' basketball squad, may be able to fill McLennan's shoes next fall. He played full-back in high school, too.

McLennan's loss not only hits the Dons' football chances, it removes the SIXTH outstanding rugby player from Coach Ernest Butterworth's present aggregation. Ed Stanley and Pete Kotler are working. Gene Crawford, Russell Roquet enrolls at U. S. C. Monday. Dick Tauber has transferred to the University of Idaho.

Amateur boxing — or perhaps some of the professional variety — will return to the Orange County Athletic club this summer, promises the new promoter, Melvin (Bud) Levin.

Wrestling will continue on Thursday nights with cards featuring junior heavyweights.

One of Santa Ana's best distance runners, Joe Frías, is competing in the cross-country for the University of New Mexico and probably will run the two-mile during the regular season. He is the brother of Danny Frías, midget mascot and manager of many Santa Ana athletic teams.

Although the fifth annual high school invitational baseball tournament is not scheduled until April 14-15-16 at Pomona, Bakersfield High already has filed an entry blank. Santa Ana's Saints are slated to enter, too. Escondido is the defending champion of the tournament, which is limited to 32 teams. The event is sponsored by the 20-30 club.

'Not a Penny Less Than $30,000,' Says Joe DiMaggio

SAN FRANCISCO. (AP) — Outfielder Joe DiMaggio said he does not know the exact salary he'll sign for with the New York Yankees, but he is certain $30,000 is the minimum. "Not a penny less."

Joe arrived home yesterday from Baseball Writers' banquets in Philadelphia and New York and also a salary conference with his boss, Owner Col. Jacob Ruppert of the American league club.

"We couldn't get together," said Joe. "That's all there is to it. I don't know exactly what I'll sign for but $30,000 is the minimum. Not a penny less. Colonel Ruppert knows what I want and I'll get it."

Baseball's most famous 1938 debut is reported to have been offered $25,000. He received about $17,500 last year.

"I'll wash dishes before I'll accept that $25,000 contract," he said.

Jockey Remains in Critical Condition

SAN DIEGO. (AP) — Jimmy Sullivan, 23-year-old jockey, remained in a critical condition here today from injuries received when his horse fell during a race at the Agua Caliente track Sunday. Physicians, who perform an emergency operation to relieve brain pressure, said Sullivan was still unconscious, with little or no change apparent in his condition.

Notre Dame, Pittsburgh End Athletic Rivalry Tonight

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP) — The University of Pittsburgh and Notre Dame will reach the end of their athletic rivalry tonight and oddity, for them, the Irish haven't a chance of finishing ahead of the Panthers in either football or basketball.

The two schools, national powers in both the gridiron and hardwood sports, called it quits in football after their game last fall and tonight's basketball game will wind up their rivalry in that sport.

The Irish hold an even break with Pitt in football, winning five, losing five and tying one, but even if they win tonight's basketball game, they will have only 10 net victories to eleven for Pittsburgh.

The severing of athletic relations has caused countless rumors from both schools as to the reason. The story most prevalent here, however, was that the break was caused by a difference in eligibility rules. Notre Dame taking the first step as the result of a policy to play only such schools

Sparing the Orange Prep league basketball championship for the second consecutive season, Coach Ralph (Bill) Cole's Tustin Union High school Farmers earned the right to defend their Southern California C. I. F. cage championship last night in the forthcoming playoffs. They play at Brea next week, but even a defeat will not oust them from first place.

The Farmers, with three members of their 1937 title aggregation in the lineup, were given their worst scare of the season by San Juan Capistrano, which forced Tustin into two overtime periods to capture their fourth victory, 25-23.

Walt Linker tossed in the deciding basket after brother Vic had matched Capistrano's Cook's field goal in the first overtime period. Tustin trailed at the half, 13-10. Both Linkers tallied nine points for team honors but Lilley of San Juan Capistrano scored 11.

A four-way deadlock for second place resulted after Laguna Beach's upset win over Garden Grove, 24-21. Brea-Olinda entered the 500 class with an easy 29-20 decision over Valencia. Laguna Grove at halftime with Henry and Delaney doing most of the damage.

STANFORD IN COMEBACK WINS 62-33

PALE ALTO. (AP) — California's grip on the lead of the southern division, Pacific coast basketball conference, was a bit shaky today after last night's 62 to 33 walloping by Stanford.

It was the first conference defeat in six starts for the Bears who beat Stanford by a 47 to 44 count at Berkeley two weeks ago. The Bears seemed completely outplayed, and their usually-tight defense was broken up by the fast Indian offense.

Stanford's forward Angelo (Hank) Luisetti, considered one of the country's greatest basketball players, hit the basket for 28 points to lead the scoring. Capt. Bob Chalmers scored 11 for California.

Phoenix Beaten By Dons, 48-39

Phoenix Junior college's barnstorming cagers will return to Arizona with concrete proof that basketball is just a bit tougher in the Eastern division of the Southern California J. C. conference. Santa Ana's Dons outclassed George Hoy's Bears, 48 to 39, here last night to become the third Eastern conference team to win from the Arizonians.

Fullerton and Riverside turned the trick earlier in the week. Sky-High "Cy" Leivermann, six-foot-center, ruffled the mesh for 17 points—mainly on twisting shots near the basket—to spark Blanchard Beatty's Dons to victory here. Phoenix, however, had the high-scorer in Jack Lindstrom, fast-stepping forward with 13 points.

Leivermann would have attained the 20-point mark if he had sunk his free throws, six of which he missed.

Guard Kenneth Marshall contributed four of the prettiest shots of the evening for eight points to aid the Santa Ana cause, and "Chuck" Hall meshed 10 points at forward. The Dons' new star from Minnesota, Art Heinisch, heavy-weight who handles himself gracefully, played only part-time but gathered six points. Ted DeVilbiss hit the rim for five points.

NEBRASKAN IS TOUGH FOE AT GARDEN

By GALE TALBOT

NEW YORK. (AP) — Fred Apostoli, the crown prince of the midwest weights, had corns on both fists today from hammering away at the bomb-proof jaw of Glen Lee, a dumpy, courageous little battler from Nebraska.

Though he knocked out the champion, Freddie Steele, a month ago, Apostoli could get no better than a fairly emphatic decision over Lee in a furious 12-rounder at the Garden last night. Lee bent now and then, but he never broke, and at the end he still was digging away with both mitts.

Apostoli must have clouted his tough little antagonist 200 times flush on the whiskers, putting all of his 155 pounds behind every shot. Lee bled from the nose all the way, and in the fifth round he barely escaped a knockout, but he fought back so gamely that the crowd of some 12,000 booed the decision.

A 1-to-4 shortender in the betting, four pounds lighter than Apostoli and several inches shorter, Lee scored a tremendous hit by forcing the fighting in every round. The only trouble was, he couldn't hit hard enough.

The two judges awarded it to Apostoli by equally wide margins, each giving the San Francisco sharpshooter nine rounds. Arthur Donovan, the referee, voted for Lee, six rounds to five. The Associated Press score sheet showed Apostoli six rounds, Lee three and three even for all practical purposes.

Whichever way you voted, however, it was a grand fight. They went at it with a cold fury from start to finish and the crowd never ceased to roar. At the close of one round, the eighth, they were winging them so earnestly that they failed to hear the bell, and they didn't break until Lee's second had jumped into the ring and dashed water into their fighter's face.

Lee whaled Apostoli's body and sent looping blows to the head. Once or twice the coast star appeared to be in trouble from rights that smacked into his pantry. But it was Apostoli who landed the cleaner, more telling punches. It was a minor miracle that Lee never went down. He is a game one, but a punching like he absorbed last night won't do him any good in the long run.

Apostoli came out of it with nothing more serious than a slight cut under his chin. He landed his punch. Lee, looking a little shop worn, wanted another shot at the air apparent. Neither had any prospect of a championship tussle with Steele, who has grown wary as a plover.

FILM MUSICAL AT BROADWAY

Hollywood Hotel Called "Natural"

Catchy songs, magnificent settings, two famous bands, a swiftly paced inside story of Hollywood life, a star-studded cast headed by Dick Powell and Louella O. Parsons, are some of the elements which make up what is apparently going to be the musical smash-hit of the season—"Hollywood Hotel." It opened today at the Broadway theater, where continuous shows were being presented before delighted audiences.

Inclusion in the picture of an entire broadcast of the most famous of all air programs, "Hollywood Hotel," meant adding enormously to the cost of a production already terrifically high. The result was a million-dollar film-musical which gives the audience double value. Dick Powell in the best role of his career gives an endearing acting performance and sings many new hits.

Opposite Powell are two of the famous film sisters, Lola as a temperamental movie queen who refuses to appear at a premiere for her producer, and Rosemary as a little unknown waitress who is called to double socially for the star. A stellar array of laugh-makers are at their rollicking best. Ted Healy as the freelance photographer who becomes Dick Powell's manager and Hugh Herbert as the befuddled father of the movie star, give inimitable performances. Alan Mowbray playing the handsome leading man is tops, and Mabel Todd, Allyn Joslyn and Johnnie Davies all outdo themselves.

Benny Goodman and his famous swing band and Raymond Paige and his orchestra hit the musical high spots in the colorful production. Movie-goers long familiar with the name of Louella O. Parsons as ace movie commentator of America and radio dialers who have heard her engineering the "Hollywood Hotel" program from its inception, now have the opportunity to see her on the screen in several chatty interludes.

Of this new hit the critical paper Variety, says: "Hollywood Hotel" is a frantic kind of diversion, with more movement, sound and fury than the usual film musical. It wheels and steps and pirouettes with the tempo of a dance, and it is, in a novel and fascinating technical sense, a dance of scenes, songs, instrumental music, satiric mockery of the picture industry and specialty numbers.

Second attraction on the Broadway bill is "Change of Heart," a new romantic comedy featuring Gloria Stuart and Michael Whalen, and with Lyle Talbot and Jane Darwell in support. Short subjects include a cartoon, "Bluebird's Baby," and world news events.

YOUTH PICTURE AT PRINCESS

Where is your daughter tonight? Is your daughter safe? "Guilty Parents" shows the truth, playing tonight and tomorrow at the Princess theater.

"Guilty Parents" was written and directed by Jack Townley, a brilliant and daring playwright who has devoted many years studying the subject in its various manifestations in our social structure.

The principal roles in this realistic drama of youths' cry for deliverance are portrayed by Jean Lacy, Glen Boles, John St. Polis, Robert Frazer and others.

See the modern butterfly with her wings singed, a smashing revelation of youth on a rampage—flaming passion—gin romances—forgotten virtue—uncontrolled desires—see them all at the Princess theater tonight and tomorrow.

In 'Hollywood Hotel'

Dick Powell and Rosemary Lane are pictured above in a scene from "Hollywood Hotel," film version of the famous radio program of the same name, which opens today at the Broadway theater with the highest praise of the year from critics making the showing of unusual interest. Second feature is "Change of Heart" with Gloria Stuart and Michael Whalen.

Now at West Coast

As a swash-buckling pirate king who helped the United States win the War of 1812, Frederic March, shown above with Francisca Gaal, is the star of "The Buccaneer," the Cecil B. DeMille epic production now showing at the West Coast theater with "Missing Witnesses," dramatic film with John Littel, Dick Purcell and Jean Dale.

Where Is Your Daughter?

Social problem that confronts modern youth who attempt to follow the bright lights for pleasure discussed in dramatic form in picture with a lesson.

CRAWFORD DRAMA BILLED

Joan Crawford and Spencer Tracy form Hollywood's newest romantic starring team in "Mannequin," dramatically human story of two people seeking happiness with the world against them, which comes to the West Coast theater next Wednesday, according to Manager George King.

From the entertaining pen of Katherine Brush who wrote "Young Man of Manhattan," the film brings Miss Crawford to the screen as Jessie Cassidy, a girl born in a New York tenement who graduates to a millionaire's penthouse. As an escape from poverty, the girl marries Alan Curtis, who in the film turns out to be a cheap crook.

Jessie's life becomes complicated when John L. Hennessey, a role which gives Tracy a rugged characterization as a wealthy steamship owner who rose from the slums, falls in love with her. Surprising story twists lead to a dramatic climax when Curtis attempts to blackmail them. Hennessey goes broke and Jessie finds happiness in the three rooms she has always wanted, with the man she has learned to love. The new picture has been given all the lavish appointments which audiences have come to expect of Crawford films.

The second attraction will be "Arsene Lupine Returns," a crook mystery de luxe which involves the creative use of the widely known Arsen Lupin character of Maurice LeBlanc. Careful and intelligent production, smart direction, adept writing and excellent performances share in the quality of silken elegance by which the absorbing plot is unraveled.

The cast includes such favorites as Melvyn Douglas, Virginia Bruce, Warren William, John Halliday, Nat Pendleton, Monty Woolley, E. E. Clive and others.

D'MILLE EPIC AT WEST COAST

Frederic March plays the part of the swash-buckling pirate king, Jean Lafitte, the man whose devotion to the United States helped win the War of 1812, in "The Buccaneer," the Cecil B. DeMille epic production which now is showing at the West Coast theater.

In the story a New Orleans belle, Margot Grahame, is in love with March but tells him that they can never marry until he gives her respectability. His life becomes even more complicated when one of his captains sinks the merchantman, "Corinthian," in defiance of March's orders that American ships are to go unmolested. Unknown to Margot, her eloping sister perishes when the ship is sunk, and the only survivor is a beautiful Dutch girl, Francisca Gaal, whom March makes maid-of-all-work at the pirate stronghold.

The pirate stronghold is destroyed by a traitorous senator, Ian Keith. General Jackson, responsible for the defense of New Orleans, then accepts March's offer to help defend the city and releases the pirates from prison. At the victory ball Margot hails him as a respectable citizen at last, but her joy turns to horror when Francisca suddenly appears in the finery of her sister who went down with the "Corinthian."

Faced with this evidence, March admits that he is responsible for the crime, even though it was done without his knowledge. General Jackson strips the crowd from lynching March and gives him an hour to make his escape.

As an added attraction the West Coast is showing "Missing Witnesses," a story of how a big city was cleared of its racketeers by honest investigators and honest prosecutors. The thrilling melodrama features John Littel, Dick Purcell and Jean Dale. The film has many exciting episodes surrounding a murder mystery. It also has plenty of romance and considerable comedy.

STATE SLATES TWO FEATURES

Close to a million dollars was spent in the making of the Gaumont epic of railroad pioneering, "Silent Barriers," which will be on the State theater screen Sunday, Monday and Tuesday.

The production stars Richard Arlen with the Venes actress, Lilli Palmer and Antoinette Cellier. The film was made entirely in the Canadian Rockies, requiring the transportation of complete motion picture studio equipment 6000 miles and thousands of extras.

Sets built on location were the most expensive ever to be made away from home, including a complete reproduction of the town of Moodyville and the construction of a whole railway unit.

When a girl with a past steps into the spotlight of fame anything can happen—and for Claire Trevor it happens all at once in "Big Town Girl," the exciting new co-feature on the State bill.

Three men—Donald Woods, Alan Dinehart and Alan Baxter—provided the background for Claire's adventures. One wants to share her life, one wants to take her life and one wants to write the story of her life!

Sidney Clare and Harry Akst, two of Hollywood's foremost composers, authored a new song hit for the production.

Chapter 7 of "Jungle Menace" is another picture on the show.

"PENITENTIARY" AT BROADWAY

The season's most powerful blast of thrills comes to light in "Penitentiary," scheduled to open at the Broadway theater next Thursday according to Manager George King, with Jean Parker falling in love with a young convict, John Howard; Walter Connolly as a warden who decides to obtain freedom for one of his charges even if it blasts his own ambitions, and with John Howard throwing away his chance for release when it means violating the code of his fellow prisoners.

The picture steers happily between sentiment and melodrama. Howard, as the prisoner, is in line for parole when a "squealer," who frustrated the escape of convict, is killed. Suspicion falls on Howard. Obeying the criminal code of silence, he refused to tell who committed the crime and faces trial for murder and loss of his parole.

The warden learns that his daughter loves the young man, who had acted as his chauffeur. The warden resolves to forget his own political ambitions and release Howard on parole, despite the new charge. This sacrifice is averted when the convict who actually did the killing reveals himself.

In the second feature spot the Broadway will present "Wise Girl," a story of a love that conquers all obstacles on the rocky road to romance. The new comedy-drama co-stars Miriam Hopkins and Ray Milland. Miss Hopkins, as a wilful daughter of wealth, and Milland as a poor but headstrong artist, find romance only after hurdling such barriers as social position, the scheming of the girl's millionaire father, a series of lovers' quarrels and a climatic misunderstanding.

Railroad Epic Screened

"Silent Barriers," opening tomorrow at the State theater, cost close to a million dollars to produce and represents the history of railroad pioneering.

Youthful Stars on Screen

The game is played this way: Immediately after The Journal news broadcast at 9:15 Friday evening over station KVOE the first five persons phoning The Journal, stating they heard Newscaster Tom Danson, and giving their names and addresses, will receive the paper free for one month.

County Builders To Talk Business

Members of the Orange County Builders' exchange membership committee will discuss business following a dinner at 6:30 next Tuesday evening at the Peninsula cafe in Balboa, according to Secretary G. W. Bassett.

AWAIT GARBO AT WALKERS'

Greta Garbo, not seen here since her triumph with Robert Taylor in "Camille," will make her new and eagerly-awaited appearance at Walker's theater Sunday, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday in "Conquest," a co-feature with "Change of Heart," this time co-starring with Boyer, who has won outstanding distinction in such film hits as "The Garden of Allah" and "History Is Made at Night."

As the famous Countess Marie Walewska, a woman who has gone down in history as the only woman who was able to sway not only course of an empire, Garbo has the Empress Napoleon, but the a role which is said to transcend in characterization and dramatic power any of her previous portrayals.

Acclaimed by increasing numbers of fans with each new picture as the most exciting sweetheart of the screen, Tyrone Power ad Loretta Young are co-starring again in "Second Honeymoon," a co-feature at Walker's. At first sight is romantic enough, Tyrone and Loretta agree, but love at second sight... MMM! They fall for each other twice in this gay hit. After parting in Reno, they meet accidentally under a thrilling Miami moon and kiss impulsively, to find they have fallen in love all again.

Stuart Erwin, Claire Trevor, Lyle Talbot, J. Edward Bromberg are included in the cast of the picture which was directed by Walter Lang.

"Spring Festival," a colored cartoon and a newsreel complete the bill.

BRISK COMEDY FOR BROADWAY

"Radio City Revels," brisk, funny, tuneful and picturesque, will open an engagement at the Broadway theater on Sunday, Feb. 13, it was announced today by Manager George King.

According to advance preview notices, the picture is "smart and elegant entertainment pot pourri, having the common appeal in its comedy and music, its romance and specialty diversion."

HURT IN CRASH

Soledad Perez, Route 2 Box 135, Santa Ana, was seriously but not critically injured when the car in which she was riding, driven by Jesus Guerrero, of the same address, collided with one operated by Mrs. Ernest Hahn, 1414 West Second street, at Fourth and Bristol streets yesterday afternoon.

Military Ball Committees Named

For ten years five prominent Santa Ana citizens have given their ardent cooperation and willing service to make the annual Military Ball of Orange County always an outstanding event of each year, both as a social affair and as a financial benefit to the disabled veterans and their families of the county.

Once again this year those five, Harry S. Pickard, Mrs. A. G. Flagg, Mrs. A. E. Coulter, W. B. Williams, and T. E. Stephenson, head important committees for the ball, which is to be given Feb. 21, the day before Washington's birthday.

Mr. Pickard is general chairman and in charge of publicity; Mrs. Flagg and leading citizens from each city of the county will secure patrons and patronesses; Mrs. Coulter is taking care of the important duty of arranging for honored guests, and Mr. Williams and Mr. Stephenson are superintending all financial arrangements.

Serving with them as committee heads are Mrs. Fannie B. "Mother" Reeves, in charge of decorations; Mrs. W. S. Thomson, in charge of refreshments; J. Riley Huber, in charge of the Valencia ballroom and music, and Charles A. Spurrier and Mrs. Edna Brown, in charge of ticket sales.

Outstanding among organizations contributing time and money to the affair is Jack Fisher chapter, Disabled American Veterans of the World War, and its auxiliary, which sponsor the ball each year.

VALENTINES FORM DANCING PARTY MOTIF

Rain beating on the rafters overhead made a pleasant accompaniment to the music and happy laughter that resounded in the famed Deardorff-Thomas Barn Thursday night when Miss Glenna Jean Deardorff and Miss Doris Lorraine Paupel were hostesses at a Valentine dancing party.

Colorful Valentine trees adorned the barn, with Valentine hearts dangling from the branches. At the supper hour the young people were seated at a table centered with a huge Valentine mailbox from which each boy and girl had previously drawn a card to determine supper partners. Red candies, heart-shaped baskets of ranunculi, tiny heart-mailboxes for napkins, and added to the beauty of the table.

At a late hour balloons were let loose from the ceiling, and as the red and white globes came floating down, each was seen to have attached to it a cupid, an arrow, or a heart. One lucky balloon was captured by Miss Betty Mae Nelson, to whom was awarded a prize.

Mrs. C. M. Deardorff and Mrs. Ella Paupel were assisted in serving their daughters' guests by a trio of mothers, Mrs. R. R. Rosset, of Garden Grove, Mrs. Raymond Nelson, and Mrs. R. E. Steinberger.

BRIDGE CLUB ENTERTAINED BY MRS. McBRIDE

Mrs. J. L. McBride was hostess yesterday at a luncheon party at Daniger's, entertaining members of a bridge club with whom she has frequently played. Dainty pink and white sweet peas in a green bowl centered her pretty table, and later auction bridge was played.

High score award was presented to Mrs. W. F. Nielsen, and consolation prize went to Mrs. George Cocking. Mrs. Earl Lepper took home a special guest prize.

Guests of Mrs. McBride were Mrs. B. H. Baker, Mrs. George Cocking, Mrs. Ray Couch, Mrs. Roy Cowley, Mrs. W. F. Nielsen, Mrs. Wayne Tibbs, Mrs. John Thurston, Mrs. W. W. Kays, Mrs. W. Sanford, Mrs. Ralph Baker, and Mrs. Earl Lepper, the latter two substitutes for Mrs. Johnson and Mrs. J. Wright.

MRS. PLUMMER IS HOSTESS

The home of Mrs. C. P. Plummer on Cypress street was the setting yesterday afternoon for a meeting of the Gab and Stitch club, with the hostess serving a one o'clock luncheon at a lace-covered table centered with a bowl of cape jasmine.

Present for the afternoon of sewing and chatting were Mrs. C. E. Treat, Mrs. C. W. Hannah, Mrs. Bill Kintz, Mrs. Emmaline Pyle, Mrs. Errol Barnes, Mrs. Oscar Kurtz, and the hostess, Mrs. Plummer.

To Wed Tonight

Attractive Miss Dorothy Grisct is shown on the left in the lovely wedding gown which she will wear during the impressive rites this evening at the Tustin Presbyterian church that will make her the bride of Elmer Curry, son of the E. V. Currys. —Gibson-Naill Photo.

Moavs Dance At Annual Party

In the gaily-bedecked Deardorff barn on Newport road, Tustin, members of Moavs, junior college women's service club, and their guests enjoyed a merry dancing party last evening, the occasion being their annual informal party.

Appropriate Valentine decorations in colorful red and white were used throughout the barn, and dancing during the evening was to the music of a recording system. Refreshments of punch and donuts were served during the evening hours.

Miss Lucinda Griffith, advisor of Moavs, acted as patroness for the dance, and assisted Miss Mary Knoche, president, with arrangements. Others in charge of planning the dance were Miss Jean McKamy, Miss Eileen Reid, and Miss Evelyn Richards, last semester's president.

Members present were the Misses Eileen Reid, Mary Knoche, Barbara Foye, Louise Wilson, Evelyn Richards, Kay Kleppe, Anne Pellegrin, Marian Bradley, Carolyn Ryan, Evelyn Wright, Donna Baker, Fayeh Nebrigg and several guest members, including Miss Erma Swartz, Miss Henrietta Rupp, and Miss Edna Wilson.

TWO P-T. A.'S FETE PAST PRESIDENTS

Past presidents of Hoover and Jefferson Parent-Teacher associations were complimented on Thursday afternoon when the two groups joined for their annual celebration of the P-T. A. Founder's day.

Mrs. John J. Vernon, president of Hoover P-T. A., conducted a brief business period and presented lovely corsages to the past presidents and to her program chairman, Mrs. Allison Honer, Mrs. C. H. Hollis, Jefferson's president, presented corsages to her three past presidents included in the group of 25 members who were guests of Hoover P-T. A.

Mrs. Walter Fine and Mrs. B. B. Walbridge were speakers for the afternoon, explaining the 40th anniversary of the associations and honoring Mrs. Phoebe Hearst and Mrs. Alice Birney, founders. They presided over a large birthday cake decorated with blue and gold.

A musical program included a cordon solo by Mrs. Mary Bowman and vocal selections by Joan Hockaday, accompanied by Helen Gandy. Girls' glee club from Willard Junior High school, directed by Miss Esther Jean Davis, and the boys' glee club, directed by Herbert Michael, sang selections. Accompanists were Miss Maxine Hill, former Jefferson president, and Miss Margaret Lockett, former Hoover president.

Dr. Stella Davis, and Mrs. William Stauffer, Hoover past presidents were Mrs. C. E. Bresler, Mrs. Otto Schroeder, Mrs. U. H. Plavan, Mrs. John Reinhaus, Mrs. M. L. West, and Mrs. E. D. Froeschle. Mrs. A. L. Helberg, now of San Diego, sent a message to the group and regretted that she was unable to attend.

Mrs. Harry Huffman served as chairman of the tea hostesses, assisted by Mrs. Stanley Reinhaus, Mrs. M. L. West, Mrs. Harold Gayles, Mrs. T. A. Willis, Mrs. Leon Lauderbach, Mrs. Deane Smiley, and Mrs. J. A. Randall.

SILVER CORD LODGE SPONSORS MERRY DANCE

A merry informal dance, which followed a brief business session, was enjoyed by members of Silver Cord Lodge, Tuesday evening when the group danced to the music of Janet Martin's orchestra in the ballroom of the Masonic Temple.

Specialty numbers were presented during the program by the Kellogg sisters, and hats, balloons and horns were distributed to the dancers. Refreshments of pie and coffee were served late in the evening.

Plans were made for a pot-luck supper to be held in the temple at 6:30 p. m. on Feb. 22, followed by a card party for members, wives and friends. In charge of the card arrangements will be Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Folger, assisted by Mr. and Mrs. Harry LeBar, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Jackson, and Mr. and Mrs. Ed Gorman.

Hosts and hostesses for this week's dance were Mr. and Mrs. George Lippert, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Darn, Mr. and Mrs. William Eckles, Mr. and Mrs. Don Edwards, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Edgar, Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Eggleston, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Farmer, Mr. and Mrs. Cal Gilbert, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Gibbons, Mr. and Mrs. Asa Hoffman, Mr. and Mrs. Orson Hunter, and Mr. and Mrs. Roy King.

PAST PRESIDENTS
The Past Presidents club of the Sarah A. Rounds tent No. 10, Daughters of Union Veterans, will meet in the home of Mrs. Margaret Robertson, 2680 North Main street, promptly at 1 p. m. on Thursday, Feb. 10, for a dessert luncheon.

Outgoing Arbiters of Tux and Gown

Gathered in the gracious living-room of Mrs. Edward Hall's home at the corner of Nineteenth street and Heliotrope Drive are Mrs. Stanley Anderson, on the left, Mrs. Hall, and Mrs. Ernest Stump, jr., on the right. The three have been feminine members of Tux and Gown board of directors this year along with Mrs. Albert Harvey and Mrs. Oliver Lindemeyer. Their places will be filled by election at the group's annual birthday dinner dance at the Country Club this evening.—Le Due Photo.

CHAT AWHILE with BETTY

Who ever heard of a vacation in February? You may well ask, but a certain lassie is right now bidding everyone adieu until a week from Monday, and will spend the interim nesting down in a modest little cottage on West Nineteenth street. If you miss your chat awhile too much, drop in. The number's 202—just one short of being a snaky room back of a neon sign, isn't it?

Anyway, moving seems to be generally in the air. Loyal and Mary King and their two diminutive madchen are fast becoming settled in that gorgeous new home of theirs on North Park boulevard. And since the return of vivacious little Helen Hamd from her six-months' European sojourn, the charming folk who have occupied the D. K. Hammond home on Victoria drive, Mrs. Helen Kappel and her family, are moving down to South Broadway, and will be permanent residents. Mrs. K's brother, Putnam Spaulding, his attractive wife and daughters, Jane and Mary Alice, haven't as yet decided to take up their abode here though, and the first three leave for North Dakota next week. Mary Alice will divide her time between her aunt and her grandmother, Mrs. George Spaulding at 522 East Chestnut street, until her parents' plans are definite.

Also glimpsed on the moving van recently was Thelma Patton. Just after being elected president of Stanford Women, Thelma was transferred down to Imperial Valley—and as a consequence has not only had to resign the office, but has had to renege on entertaining the gala Monday, Mary Tuthill is subbing as hostess in her place.

Cutest sight of the week: Dashing little Gladys Bemis "calling" the Big Apple for some twenty never-give-up couples at the Country Club dance.

Interesting rumor of the week: That four pert insurance office girls decided to just show their boss one morning recently and all turned up simultaneously with dreary hangovers.

And a story to tell on myself: Long having thought Mrs. Sara Haddon's little Peke was a very cunning thing, I assumed that its name was spelled "Amie"—in other words, broadly speaking, "Little Love." It seemed fitting enough. And here, all the time, it's "Ah Mi"—which is not only Chinese, but has other cute connotations.

Tripping is still in the air, too—with Mexico City still "way" and above the most popular spot of all spots these days. Precisely at 8:15 p. m. tomorrow John and Betty Scripps, having successfully arranged for Baby Edith's care during their absence, embark via train for that lush city. After touring on the train for several weeks they will eventually wind up at New Orleans, where they will catch a boat and investigate South America or the West Indies or whatever seems a good idea, returning here in early April.

They're planning to "mate up" with Fred and Ruth Forgy and Florence and Horace Stevens in Mexico for a day or so.

Alyce Majors and her mama are heading for Louisiana to visit the younger Majors' daughter and her new husband for six weeks or so.

Another group is making it a little closer to home, but nevertheless anticipate a very interesting day as guests of an old friend and former Santa Ana, Mrs. R. C. Edwards, next week. Mrs. Don Mozley, Mrs. D. E. Liggett, Mrs. Jesse Elliott, Mrs. Olin Turner, and Mrs. C. P. Laxton are all journeying in to Cumnock school to some sort of party doin's.

With her usual equanimity, Marie Timmons has scheduled a dinner party a week for the next five or six weeks. Nice to hear that Mrs. John Clarkson is once again on the list of those able to be up serious illness. And to glimpse a very dashing and windswept Mrs. and about after her long siege of Mortimer Plum in a yellow plaid coat, seeking to get herself together after being two weeks in bed with that debili flu. And to hear that Maurice Mathis Croddy is making rapid strides toward recovery from a trained-nurse pneumonia attack.

Did you know that Russell Crouse has a very unique hobby? Something to do with etching on ivory, I believe, and he's made such remarkable strides in it that he's being consulted professionally by artists all over the Southland. Or so I'm told.

Welcome home: Bernice Summers, Mrs. Findlay Walker since last summer, and still cousin to Es Emison and Mona Smith, is once again a Santa Ana. Her nice young husband has been transferred back from Ocean-side where they've lived since the hazy moon.

Another to come back to the home-fires is little Virginia Curry, college-age daughter of the B. V. Currys, who found Kansas a pretty homesick sort of place, college notwithstanding. So she's home to figure in her brother's wedding tonight.

Question for the week: WHERE is Mrs. Chenoweth?

The C. W. Harrisons have added the finishing touch to their beach home of theirs overlooking

MR. MEAD IS BIRTHDAY HONOR GUEST

F. F. Mead was honored today, when Mrs. Mead entertained with a family dinner at their home, 2119 North Main street, in celebration of the honor guest's 80th birthday anniversary.

Because of the frail health of the honoree, the dinner was planned for one o'clock, with his children and grandchildren making up the group about the table. Mrs. Mead centered the table with an oblong bowl with mirrored sides, filled with Iceland poppies, ranunculi, and candelabras in shades of yellow.

Their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Mead, of Seattle visited them several days last week, but were unable to remain for the natal day. Their ardent remembrance of two dozen roses and a wire of good wishes arrived today with many other gifts.

Those at dinner with Mr. and Mrs. Mead were Mr. and Mrs. Frank Mead, jr., and children, Frank III, Patsy and Calvin; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Curran, jr. (Nan Mead); and Mr. and Mrs. Tom Geoghegan, jr. (Lolita Mead).

GRAND OFFICERS TO BE FETED

Members of the Santa Ana Odd Fellows lodge will join to entertain their grand officers with special rites in the I.O.O.F. hall at 9 p. m. this evening.

Visitors will include Walter Ritcher of Ripon, Calif., grand patriarch, and Harry Farr of San Diego, grand master of the subordinate lodge of I.O.O.F. Mr. McNair of Whittier, district deputy grand patriarch, will install the local chapter's officers during an open installation, which will be followed by a special program. William Peterkin and George Stovall are in charge of arrangements.

Christmas has its Santa Claus. Easter has its bunny. But fifth of February, you haven't got anything. Don't you think that's funny?

A thrilling end to an hectic day came with the Bartlett-Robertson concert last night—and it was gratifying to see the audience's enthusiastic response.

Glipped sitting here and there were Mrs. E. D. White, Mrs. A. J. Lashy and Mrs. R. C. Hoiles in a group; gracious Mrs. Emil Wagner in mandarin coat next to Ruth Armstrong in stunning burnt orange velvet to offset that flaming head of hers; Carolyn Haughton with an absorbed 6-year-old; the E. T. McFaddens and their little boy; Helen Swanner and Joe Daniger hurrying up the aisle with the former's little girl; lovely Lola Wehrly and the good doctor; Miss Mabel McFadden always present at every musical affair; ditto the Brad Hollises, the Edwards Halls, Miss Gertrude Montgomery, and the Dexter Balles, and the always-nice-to-see three generation trio, Mrs. C. F. Crose, Mrs. F. C. Rowland and Miss Barbara Rowland, home from Scripps for the week-end.

INDIANAN IS WELCOMED AT PARTIES

Mrs. J. B. Haas, 602 South Garnsey street, has been entertaining as a house guest, Mrs. Elizabeth Robbins of Indianapolis, who has been complimented with several charming courtesies, with several others planned.

While Mrs. Margaret Church was in the East during the summer, she was entertained by Mrs. Robbins. Therefore Mrs. Church has given two affairs for the Indianan, beginning with an informal dinner at her South Main street home on Monday evening.

Wednesday, Mrs. Church was hostess at luncheon, entertaining in the Corona del Mar beach cottage of Mrs. A. N. Zerman, which had been loaned to her for the occasion. Contract was played during the afternoon, with high prize going to Mrs. Roy Ivens and second to Mrs. Alvin Nowotny.

Guests of Mrs. Church were Mrs. A. N. Zerman, Mrs. J. B. Haas, Mrs. E. F. Perkins, Mrs. Molly Ballard, Mrs. Roy Ivens, Mrs. Alvin Nowotny, and Mrs. Robbins.

MRS. WINBIGLER TO ENTERTAIN W. C. T. U.

Following a pleasant custom of many years, Mrs. Theo Winbigler will again open her home to the Women's Christian Temperance union for the annual Frances Willard meeting of that group.

The outstanding affair will be held Tuesday at 2 p. m. at the Winbigler residence, 207 East Ninth street. Mrs. Lola Grimm, county president, will be featured speaker.

SOUTHEAST GROUP

Southeast section of the Ladies' Aid of the First Presbyterian church will meet Thursday, Feb. 10, at 2 p. m. at the home of Mrs. A. W. Metzger, 1237 South Birch street.

Artists Are Greeted At Reception

As a delightful courtesy to Ethel Bartlett and Rae Robertson, who received one of the most enthusiastic ovations Santa Ana has ever accorded visiting artists, the Musical Arts club of Santa Ana, which this year is sponsoring the Behymer-Wilson artists series, held an informal reception and dinner at Daniger's last night.

Colorful decorations were used on the late supper tables, forming a charming setting for the greeting for the artists. The duo-planners were guests of honor at the reception, with Miss Bartlett making a striking picture in her gown of gold brocade in typical Renaissance style.

Other honored guests at the affair were L. E. Behymer and Madame De Trout, both of Los Angeles. Almost 70 persons, members and guests of the Musical Arts club, gathered to greet the gracious performers.

Mrs. J. Leslie Steffenson, president of the club, acted as head of the receiving committee and presided at the informal program which followed dinner. She wore a frock of black taffeta with blue and green sequin trim.

Mrs. Emil Wagner, social chairman, in a blue Mandarin coat, introduced Cecil Fross Willets, program chairman, for a vocal selection. She was accompanied by Miss Ruth Armstrong, but was interrupted three times by Mrs. Steffenson, Mrs. Emmett Elliott and Miss Beulah Parker with requests for community songs.

Following their introduction, the guest artists responded with a few words, and presented autographed photographs to Mrs. Steffenson and Clarence Gustin. Mr. Gustin also made an announcement of plans already being completed for next year's artist series.

LOAN FUND IS INCREASED BY BENEFITS

Eager to earn money for the Student Loan Fund drive the five women's service clubs at the Santa Ana Junior college are sponsoring numerous sales and making plans for other events soon to follow.

Started as the first of a series of food sales, Piloteers, headed by Miss Muriel Snyder, sold homemade pies Wednesday noon with clear profit. Assisting in serving were Miss Maxine Huber and Miss Nina June Robertson.

Moavs held a donut sale Thursday and Friday afternoon in the college hall. Twenty-eight dozen were sold by Miss Evelyn Richards, first semester president, who was in charge. Both service clubs will hold food sales next week on alternating days.

Sponsored as one of the biggest social affairs of the semester, the Sisterhood of Spinsters will hold a Fashion-Bridge-Tee Friday, Feb. 18, from 1 until 5 p. m. in the Santa Ana Ebell clubhouse. Tickets are now being sold by members of the club, bridge groups, and college women.

Assisting in the Spinsters' Frandson and Miss Catherine Eklund, second semester president, as various committee heads are the Misses Mary Henderson, Irene Krisher, Audrey Sattler, and Phyllis Kogler.

Members of Les Meninas are continuing the sale of stationery with the college letter head on each sheet. Further plans for raising money for the fund will be discussed when service clubs meet next Monday.

BUDGETING IS TOPIC AT LUNCHEON

A delightful luncheon was enjoyed by members of Ebells' Third Household Economics section this week when they met as guests of Mrs. C. F. Crose, Mrs. D. F. Cook, and Mrs. W. S. Rose.

The colorful spring flowers that centered the table and stationery repeated in the lovely bouquets presented a special guest of the day, Mrs. J. L. McBride, and four February birthday celebrants, Mrs. F. L. Andrews, Mrs. A. G. Finley, Mrs. W. L. Leiby, and Mrs. E. H. Prince.

Mrs. Crose presented the afternoon's program, giving an interesting discussion of household budgeting, and roll call was responded to with appropriate suggestions from each member.

It was announced that Mrs. Prince, Mrs. M. C. Williams, and Mrs. A. M. Cox would entertain the group next month, and that "Why Grow Old?" would be the topic.

Members present this week were the Mesdames F. L. Andrews, C. F. Bennett, A. M. Cox, D. F. Cook, C. F. Crose, A. G. Finley, B. B. Kellogg, W. L. Leiby, Stella Menges, E. L. Morrison, S. T. Preble, E. H. Prince, C. W. Baird, F. J. Robinson, W. S. Rose, R. C. Sutton, and M. C. Williams.

CONTRACT SECTION
Ebells' Contract section will meet in the clubhouse at 1 p. m. next Friday, Feb. 11, for a dessert luncheon. All members who are unable to attend are requested to notify the secretary, Mrs. Clyde A. Bach. Hostesses for the session will be Mrs. J. J. Harrison, Mrs. Perry Lewis and Mrs. Joe Burke.

CHURCH BEGINS NIGHT SERIES

Dinner and Assembly Lecture on Program

Beginning the 15th annual church night series of the First Methodist church, members and friends of the church will join for a 6 o'clock dinner, general assembly lecture, and classes in the church, Sixth and Spurgeon streets, on Wednesday evening, Feb. 10, 1938, at 6 o'clock.

Dr. Carl Sumner Knopf, dean of the School of Religion of the University of Southern California, will speak at each session, from Feb. 9 to March 20, using as his topic "They Knew the Answers." He will take the principles and ideals of a different prophet each time, applying to modern civilization.

Mrs. F. R. Schweitzer will supervise the dinner, served at 6 p. m., with the assistance of the Friendly Circle class of the church. A brief program of fellowship moments will be conducted by Halstead McCormack and Mrs. Esther Vogt Gordon.

Six separate classes will be offered at 7:35 p. m. each Wednesday. Included in the course list will be "Christianity in World Situations," presented each time by a different leader. Mrs. Merritt White of the speakers bureau of the Adult Education department will lead a class on "Bookland."

Mrs. Jennie L. Tessman will lead a class on "Great Personalities in the Development of Christian Thought." Mrs. Helen McArthur on "Content and Value of the New Testament." Halstead McCormack on "Music Through the Ages" and Harold Kiech on "Woodcraft."

In addition to the adult classes, there will be an assembly hour for

EVANGELISTIC SERVICES SET

In keeping with the general program of the Methodist church throughout America, the Spurgeon Memorial Methodist church will hold a series of evangelistic services each evening at 7:30 o'clock from Feb. 6 through Feb. 20. These meetings will commemorate the two-hundredth anniversary of the founding of the Methodist church by John Wesley.

In the local crusade, the Rev. "Bud" Martin, well known in Southern California as an outstanding young evangelist will preach.

A series of musical programs has been arranged under the leadership of Walter E. Tipton who has recently come to this city as Director of Religious Education in the Spurgeon church. The services will feature congregational singing.

Dr. Cecil M. Aker who is entering upon his eighth year as pastor of the local church, extends an invitation to all to attend the services.

Holyland Lecture At Presbyterian

"Palestine Speaks of the Moslem World" will be the topic of Mrs. E. A. Baker of the Holyland Bible Knowledge Society, to be held tomorrow at the United Presbyterian church at Sixth and Bush streets in connection with their annual School of World Missions. Mrs. Baker will dress in Arab costume and she will illustrate her talk with a display of color art on the screen, in addition to showing a collection of curios from Moslem lands.

CHURCH TOPICS ANNOUNCED

OCEANVIEW. — Announcements of topics at both morning and evening services for the month of February at the Wintersburg Methodist church have been released by the pastor, the Rev. George A. Quayle, as follows:

Feb. 6 the morning sermon will be "The Message of the Cross;" Feb. 16 "Demobilizing Race Antagonisms;" Feb. 20, "Our Debt to Martin Luther;" and Feb. 27, "Wesley's Emphasis on Religion."

Evening sermons will be "The Living Christ, Our Hope," Abraham Lincoln Speaks, "An Old-fashioned Sermon," and the fourth and closing Sunday evening of the month will feature a concert of sacred music.

Missionary Talks To Women's Club

Miss Viola C. Hill, who has been in the mission field in China for the past 23 years and now on furlough, addressed a group of over 100 women who are members of the Woman's society at the First Baptist church this week. Several in the audience were formerly classmates of Miss Hill when she was in school here.

Miss Hill was introduced by Miss Lulu Minter who had visited with her in Shanghai in 1933. Mrs. E. W. Farmer and Miss Laura Jones dressed in Chinese costume gave the devotions for the day. They sang three Chinese lullabies.

A short business session was held at the close of the afternoon. About thirty women attended the sewing activities held during the morning preceding the meeting.

The first electric railway in the United States was built in 1855.

Does Society Keep Normal Young People From Marrying and Having Families?

Is society making it impossible for young men who wish to marry, have homes and children?

A young man of 27 says as much in a letter to us this morning. I know any number of young people, even younger than he, who have married and are marrying every day with nothing but the proverbial

MARY HAMPTON'S Column

THREE DRESSES IN ONE

For the very fashion-conscious young modern who has a typically depressed wardrobe budget, there is a trick little frock I just saw yesterday. This one happened to be navy blue—a very simple little thing with bolero to match and the sort that becomes romantically modish with a highly colored swing of beads or a clip and bracelets. But right along with the frock, when you buy it, are its disguises and make-ups. First of all, there is a nice white pique collar which, with white gloves, makes the costume crisply Easterlike for a warm day. And then, when a dress-up mood comes on, it is as office-leaving time when the "date" is waiting, there is a smart Roman-striped vestee which wraps around the waist under the bolero in highly approved new cummerbund style! And the whole combination is in the popular "inexpensive" class.

SHIRT TAILS OUT AND CLOGS

Now at the other extreme of daily living are those exclusive hotels and wear only the "newest" which is just being introduced. For these, playing beside pools and sunny seashores at this time of year, the fashion of "shirt-tails" out is amusingly chic. There are tailored shirt affairs being made—patch pockets and side slits—which resemble a workman's shirt. And they dangle about very much as a man's shirt might were you to wear it over your swim suit for a masquerade. Only these beach shirts are often colorful—especially designed—and coarser material! But about shirts out—even the tuck-in blouses are sometimes left hanging out with slacks or shorts. It is a whimsical new fashion—think the outcome of accident and event. Somebody famous probably just couldn't keep their shirt-tails in. I'll find out about that for you. After all, that is the way fashions start. Now roll the long base of this isosceles triangle up and up for the distance of four or so inches bend, roll out. You will have a peaked bonnet. Tie ends under chin and roll edge over face if you like. Can you do it? The thing is chic and charming!

Thanks to Mrs. H. G. Spaulding of Alameda for this smart idea!

ing worn for resorts and play whether in snow lands or the tropics. So the newest thing is to fold your own—out of a big bandana. And here is how you do it.

Double the square over to half size. Wrong side out so that it makes a rectangle. Then fold back the top edge again to half size, so that the top outer edge now lies along the middle fold, with the color of the inside showing. Turn all this over without unfolding. Now, using the center of the thickest long side as a future point, fold back both ends obliquely and down. This upper thick fold should now become two perpendicular edges, side by side, like the supporting pole of a tent. Now roll the long base of this isosceles triangle up and up for the distance of four or so inches bend, roll out. You will have a peaked bonnet. Tie ends under chin and roll edge over face if you like. Can you do it? The thing is chic and charming!

Thanks to Mrs. H. G. Spaulding of Alameda for this smart idea!

VALENTINE BALL

Torosa Rebekah lodge will sponsor a fancy dress Valentine ball in the I.O.O.F. hall on Wednesday night, Feb. 9. The ball will be open to the public with both dancing and cards offered, and beginning at 9 p. m.

After the healing of the palsied man which we saw last week, the people were filled with amazement and said, "We never saw it on this fashion." Jesus and his disciples now went forth again over near the Sea of Galilee where as usual the multitude flocked for help and his teachings. In this lake country Jesus found another young man who He called to His service. The young man who Mark calls Levi was sitting at the seat of custom—a tax collector. This was a very remunerative position but most unpopular. Christ, however, was not influenced by this unpopularity of Levi. He evidently had qualifications which Christ saw were great possibilities and said to him, "Follow me." Jesus still says "Follow me" but instead of doing as Levi who chose and followed Him, so many are following greed, selfishness and pride.

Levi at once arranged for a great supper for Jesus and His disciples and invited his friends for he wanted them to meet his new found friend, and perhaps hoped that some of these might also become His followers. So a large group came together for the meal. The scribes and Pharisees saw Jesus in this company and felt He was associating with those beneath His social standing, "with publicans and sinners." They questioned the propriety of this. These scribes and Pharisees evidently considered themselves above those whom they called sinners. There was a social line they would not step over. Such so-called social standards have been a great barrier to the spread of Christianity. As for Jesus, while He never would compromise His standard of righteousness, He gave no attention to such "artificial" standards. He was seeking to reach those who needed Him.

So when Jesus heard the question these scribes and Pharisees asked and in the very light of their class distinction and judgment He said "They that are whole have no need of the physician, but they that are sick." In other words, He told them that according to their own judgment of themselves, they did not need Him for they were already righteous

Strange as it seems, one of the country's greatest scoring backs during the past football season was Bill De Correvont, a high school lad with a touchdown complex. Playing for Austin High, Chicago, Bill reached a scoring peak on October 8, 1937, playing against McKinley High in Mills Stadium.

De Correvont entered the game in the second quarter. The first time he carried the ball he ran 23 yards to a touchdown. Three more times during the first half he carried the ball - each time smashing through McKinley's forward wall and secondary to a touchdown, with runs of 35, 12 and 48 yards. He converted two touchdowns. In the fourth quarter De Cor-revont again entered the game. On his fifth trip made a first down but no score. Then Bill took the ball five more times and made five more touchdowns on runs of 9, 60, 20, 40 and 77 yards! His entire time in the game totaled only 24 minutes, but he scored 56 points and reeled off 334 yards for Austin. Final score was 83-0.

YOUTHFUL CHARM IN EVERY LINE OF THIS MARIAN MARTIN FROCK

PATTERN 9617
If you want a Frock with youth and charm in every line, choose Pattern 9617. It's one of the easiest to make and most useful frocks you'll ever own. You'll thoroughly enjoy the comfort of the raglan sleeves which you may finish full or puffed. And if you want contrast make the sleeves, front yoke and pockets in a contrasting color. Tiny tucks below the yoke control the easy fullness of the bodice while sleek lines are achieved from the waist down. You'll love this dress in shantung or in any plain or printed cotton. And for mid-season, choose soft challis. Complete Marian Martin Diagrammed Sew Chart is included to help you give this frock a smooth, professional-looking finish.

Pattern 9617 may be ordered only in misses' and women's sizes, 12, 14, 16, 18, 20, 32, 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42. Size 36 requires 3 1/4 yards 36 inch fabric for view A.

MARKETS—CITRUS

Weekly Citrus Review

LOS ANGELES, (AP)—California oranges were slightly higher and lemons weaker during the past week in eastern and middle western auction centers.

Navel oranges were five cents a box higher to an auction average for the week of $2.52, while the volume climbed 26 cars to a total of 231 cars.

California lemons dipped 12 cents a box to make an auction average of $3.98 and the volume was three cars higher to total 106.

W. C. Frackelton, general manager for the California-Arizona Orange and Grapefruit agency, announced next week's prorate as follows: In interstate commerce, 899 cars of navel oranges from southern California, 50 from central California and one from Arizona.

In intrastate commerce, 275 from southern California. No prorate was given in intrastate commerce for central California, in view of the very few carlot shipments left in that section.

The Texas prorate on grapefruit for the week ending Feb. 5 was set at 460 cars.

Amendment Alive or Dead?

Because of recent and conflicting court decisions in two states the status of the proposed national child labor amendment is in doubt.

The legislatures of Kentucky and Kansas voted last year to ratify the amendment. Both, at earlier sessions, had refused to ratify. Now the Kentucky court of appeals holds ratification illegal, while the Kansas supreme court holds it legal.

Is a state, having once refused to ratify, forever barred from changing its mind? Do the nearly 14 years since congress submitted this amendment constitute more than a reasonable time for completion of the ratifying process? To both questions the Kentucky court said yes and the Kansas court said no.

Courtenay Dinwiddie, general secretary of the National Child Labor committee, suggests that one or both of these state decisions ought to be reviewed on appeal by the United States supreme court.

If the Kentucky court is correct the amendment is dead. For of the 28 state legislatures that have voted to ratify, 23 had previously voted not to ratify. And eight more states would be needed, but the Kentucky court believes it is too late for any state to act.

The reasoning of the Kansas court seems to us more logical. But here is a case where laymen's opinions don't count. Only the supreme court can say which of the two state courts is right.

It seems clear that the supreme court is under no compulsion, at this stage, to hear an appeal from either state decision. It can wait until 36 states have voted to ratify, and until congress passes laws designed to make the amendment effective, and until some one challenges the constitutionality of these laws.

But it also seems clear that the supreme court might most properly and usefully consent to give its opinion now on a matter of such general public interest.

Whether the amendment is alive or dead should be determined at the earliest moment possible. The present uncertainty prejudices the rights of children who are suffering for lack of protection. Those who are fighting to abolish child labor should know, without further long delay, whether it is worth while to fight on for ratification of this amendment or whether it is necessary to seek a different remedy.

Hiram Johnson asks Roosevelt to clarify our foreign policy. Perhaps Hiram is tired of waiting until the Japs do it.

'Old Men in a New Age'

Announcing that he will retire in 1940 as bishop of the California diocese of the Episcopal church, the Rt. Rev. Edward L. Parsons asks the diocesan convention to appoint a bishop coadjutor to assist him in the meantime and suggests at least one of the qualifications for a shepherd of the flock.

"I am distinctly not pleading that times are changing, that new problems are arising, and that only the men of a new generation can cope with them," Bishop Parsons told the convention. "Obviously a man of 70 does not look at life as does a youth of 20; but neither does a man of 40.

"The essential factor is not that of age. The essential factor is the capacity to see reality and get a right perspective on life. There are plenty of men of the young generation who, alas, are living with their great-grandfathers so far as any real understanding of the great movements of contemporary society is concerned. They have radio and aviation and automobiles but they are as horrified at impending social change as were their ancestors under similar conditions.

"There are clergy—none in this diocese—not yet a decade in the ministry who know next to nothing about what is happening in the real world. Some live in the Middle Ages, some in the squirearchy period, some in the boom times of rugged individualism. But in whatever happy period they live the point is that they are old men in a new age. Years have little to do with maladjustment of this kind."

What this alert-minded 70-year-old spiritual leader says about churchmen applies with equal truth and equal force to persons in other walks of life. To understand social change and face it courageously, welcoming the good and resisting the bad, is a responsibility that rests today on leaders in business, education, government and art quite as much as in religion.

Europeans are alarmed at sight of the Aurora Borealis. We thought by now they had learned to expect most anything hanging over their heads.

Why Not a Community Fiesta?

Subscriber wants to know why it wouldn't be a good idea for local civic groups to promote something special in the way of a community event next May when the Junior College Fiesta and the Assistance Association's Horse Show occur in the same week.

It does look like a chance for the chamber of commerce, Home Owned Business Men's association, service clubs and other wide-awake groups to unite with those already in the picture and do something big and novel.

The League of Nations bartender, an Italian, was forced to resign because of pressure from Rome. When Mussolini withdraws, he really withdraws.

'Spike' O'Donnell
Memories
Might Click

By
Westbrook
Pegler

CHICAGO. — "Spike" O'Donnell is thinking of having his memoirs done, and at this moment might be described as a book in search of an author.

Mr. O'Donnell was in the beer trade in Chicago during the exciting time of prohibition and served as a clay pigeon in many exciting shooting tests. The fact that he is alive today and without a wound to show for his service in the wars is a disgusting commentary on the marksmanship of many of his famous contemporaries.

By his own count he was shelled on 11 separate occasions, and there is no disputing the fact that he twice came through attacks at close quarters combining the fire of machine guns and blunderbusses which tossed out such home-made shrapnel as screws, bolts, bent nails and fragments of sash weights.

On another occasion some business rivals drove slowly past his happy home (selecting with fine chivalry, an hour when the kids had gone to bed) and splattered it with bullets which left marks in the dining room and kitchen marks preserved to this day with pride as souvenirs of a more strenuous and altogether happier period of his life. After he is gone these marks will maintain his honor, refuting foul rumors that his enemies shot blanks.

SAD BENEATH CONFIDENCE

Politically, something has happened to Mr. O'Donnell and he is sad beneath the garrulous nonchalance with which he salutes old friends. Three years running, on the day before Christmas eve, the Chicago cops have picked him up and held him in the bucket, as he says, for 24 hours, at a time when a man wants to be doing his Christmas shopping. They have released him just in time to go home empty-handed. They have picked him up at various other times, too, and always for nothing.

Mr. O'Donnell is out of action entirely, which is strange, because there is plenty of action in Chicago and other men, less worthy, are doing very well in coal, horse books, insurance and other standard business through which the local tradesmen traditionally take care of their own. It is a mystery to him, the more depressing because Mr. Roosevelt's and Mr. Farley's friend, Ed Kelly, the mayor, was always polite to him up to a certain point. Wasn't it "Spike" O'Donnell who offered solace to Mr. Kelly, the time Mr. Kelly was indicted, with the homely philosophical remark that an Irishman can't consider himself a real politician until he has been indicted?

LABOR QUESTION

"It is like being confirmed," Mr. O'Donnell told Mr. Kelly. What about organizing a labor union? That has always been a reliable business for a man of Mr. O'Donnell's talents.

"Labor?" Mr. O'Donnell replied. "It is so long since they put anything in this town that if you had a steam shovel you could charge admission to see it work."

No, there is nothing doing in labor, but if a man could only get a little capital and start a big place where all the city and county officials and the sports and sight-seers could come—like Dempsey's in New York—that would be something. Or that book—"The Life and Battles of 'Spike' O'Donnell."

But when Mr. O'Donnell starts reciting his memoirs to a ghost for posterity's sake he chokes up. He is jerked about by his desire to tell a story and make a fortune as an author—how much did that girl make out of "Gone With the Wind?"—and the cultivated reticence of a man whose trade regards it as a capital crime to blow the whistle.

SPEAKS WELL OF DEAD

He speaks of "a certain party" and "Mister Smith" and "this Jones," and when he comes to the mention of men dead who wanted his life in the heat of competition those few short years ago, he softens their memory and speaks no ill, sometimes lifting his hat off his moist and half-naked scalp to say—"God rest his soul! He wasn't so bad." He speaks thus of Frankie McErlane, telling of the time that Frankie let fly at him with a shotgun which shot flame like the mouth of a blast furnace.

Many, many old friends and enemies are dead and gone—God rest their souls!—all but a few of those eternals. And many of the survivors who once handled fabulous money and bought city officials and police captains as a precinct leader buys so many bums, though for higher prices, are now out of action and out of money, like "Spike." They thought it would last forever or certainly as long as they lasted, but abrupt-

Twenty-Five Years Ago

FEB. 5, 1913

LONDON.—The whole British cabinet was set sneezing yesterday by the simultaneous receipt by each minister of suffragette letters containing red pepper. Sylvia Pankhurst, militant leader of the suffragettes, meanwhile, was sentenced to two weeks in jail for participation last week in a raid on the house of commons to force an interview with David Lloyd George.

A franchise to convey gas from Brea canyon to Fullerton was granted to Otis Birch by the board of supervisors yesterday.

After a six-weeks visit in Kansas City, Iowa towns and other points in the Middle West, Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Rowland and their little daughter, Nina Jeanette, have returned to their home here. They were accompanied on the home trip by Mr. Rowland's father, T. H. Rowland, who will visit here for several weeks.

PARIS.—Edouard Peltier, high official in the French department of justice, released himself from his residence today and a woman nurse attending him also was slain. The double murder was believed to have been committed by an accomplice of the gang of automobile bandits whose trial is in progress here.

Remarkable Remarks

Nothing has been done to relieve the country from the fear which was partially responsible for the present depression.—U. S. Senator Charles L. McNary, Oregon.

The first month of marriage was sweet—and after that, ooh!—Mrs. Mary Boyer, Philadelphia, suing for a divorce after being married one year.

The first responsibility of a college is to give sound instruction.—President Alan Valentine, University of Rochester, N. Y.

I'm not a poor hitter, and I'm not a great hitter, but I am a fair hitter, and I tell you the truth he threw balls past me I never even saw.—Gerald Walker, who batted .335 during 1937, speaking of Bob Feller.

ly repeal happened, politics shifted and many a good man is out.

BREWERY GONE

Mr. O'Donnell's prohibition brewery is gone, too. He still defends the quality of his beer, swearing that he drew the water from a special well 1500 feet down and never released the brew under seven days old. He still toys with a hope as to that well, for the water itself contained something stimulating, something that made people feel vigorous and young.

"Now, if I could only market that water this town would be a town," Mr. O'Donnell says. "Peps you up. Makes you strong. Makes you think fast. I could make a million out of that water if I still owned that well."

Thus "Spike" O'Donnell, the old clay pigeon who once counted his receipts in gees. It seems impossible and somehow, not entirely right. It would have been more poetic if the last blast of scrap-iron had got him.

The Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

Pacific Defenses Being Quietly Loaded with Ammunition, Oil, Bombers; Old Guard Democrats Schemed to Oppose Jackson but GOP Wouldn't Play; Impatient Wage-Hour Backers May Take Action Out of Mrs. Norton's Hands; Straus Hands Chicago Housing, Built by Ickes, to Ickes' Old Enemies.

WASHINGTON.—There has been no fanfare or noise about it, but the navy has been engaged in a very steady campaign to build up its defenses in the mid-Pacific. Every transport plying between the West Coast and Hawaii during recent weeks has been loaded with "live" ammunition (shells which are new and sure to explode). As a result Hawaii has become the scene of the most important ammunition dumps in or around the U. S. A.

The flight of army and navy bombing planes to Hawaii already has been published. However, it has escaped general attention that these planes were sent to Hawaii permanently, not on stunt flights. All of the navy's bombing planes and a good part of the army's are now concentrated at Pearl Harbor. Extra supplies, chiefly oil, also have been stored at Hawaii. This means the navy does not explain. But inside word is that preparations are being pushed to put the fleet in complete fighting trim within a period of three months.

CRIME TIPS

In order to help detect those who use the mails for sending bombs, extortion letters and for fraud, the postoffice has a "confidential fund" of $55,000 to pay "informers."

However, postal inspectors paid out only $125 for crime tips last year, turning $53,701 back to the treasury.

They haven't realized it yet, but the joke is on those Three Horsemen of the Anti-New Deal Demos.—Senators Burke of Nebraska, Bailey of North Carolina, and Peter Geelot Gerry, millionaire-socialite from Rhode Island.

It started when Roosevelt sent Bob Jackson's name to the senate to be solicitor general. Immediately the Three Horsemen had a pow-wow and decided to proposition the Republicans to stir up a confirmation fight against the trust-buster.

G. O. P. DODGES ISSUE

But the G. O. P. leaders would have none of it. One retorted, "You Democrats do your own dirty work. We have no objection to your sneering each other, but we'll stay on the sidelines in this affair. All you are going to do is make a hero of him."

Senator Borah was threateningly hostile. "I would welcome the opportunity," he snapped, "to take the floor in Jackson's behalf and discuss just why he is being opposed."

Their hopes dashed by this cold water, the three snipers abandoned their scheme. And right here is where the joke comes in.

Administration leaders had wanted a row raised against Jackson's elevation, had hoped that Burke and his Old Guard pals would cut loose. Behind the New Dealers' secret hope was the belief that a fight would dramatize Jackson's anti-monopoly crusading and boomerang against the opposition.

TWO BOB JACKSONS

Another would-be sharpshooter who came a cropper over Jackson's appointment was Senator

Arthur Vandenberg. When the nomination was announced the Michiganander rushed gleefully to several G. O. P. colleagues with "reliable" information that Jackson had been a lobbyist. But when they examined his data they disgustedly handed it back.

"You've got your Jacksons mixed," they said. "Your lobbyist was another Robert Jackson and not the one the President has just appointed."

NOTE.—The other Bob Jackson is from New Hampshire and was former Secretary of the Democratic National Committee. He was forced to exit from that post when Roosevelt asked all committee members who were engaged in lobbying to resign.

WAGE-HOUR ACT

Mary Norton, the buxom lady from New Jersey who is supposed to be the mother of wage-hour legislation, has been treating it like a step-child of late, and this has stirred up rumblings of revolt among members of her House Labor committee.

Rightfully or wrongfully, they are accusing her of secret hostility to the legislation and of acting on the basis of her political boss, Mayor Hague of Jersey City, who loves labor as Roosevelt loves monopolies.

Nothing has riled PWA Administrator Ickes so much recently as seeing Housing Administrator Straus hand two big housing projects in Chicago over to the Kelly-Nash political machine.

Secretary Ickes happens to come from Chicago, has no great love for the two Irishmen who dominate that city's politics. Furthermore, he Ickes, planned and built the two housing projects which Straus gave away. Named the "Jane Adams" and the "Julia Lathrop" in honor of the two great women social workers, they are among the largest slum clearance projects Ickes' PWA Housing Division built.

But after they were built, Nathan Straus of New York took over the new U. S. Housing Authority. Nominally Straus is under Ickes, actually he is almost independent.

What Other Editors Say

BIGGER STADIUM, OR WHAT?

President Sproul of the University of California is up a tree in a very embarrassing position, with the university's powerful alumni guarding one means of descent and Heaven knows how many enthusiastic football fans who never attended California guarding the other.

And the result may be that California's Golden Bears will never play in the Pasadena Rose Bowl again, regardless of how many championship teams are turned out across the bay.

Either way, President Sproul is on the spot, and recognizes it by announcing that hereafter the university will stand ready to reject all invitations for post-season games. California loses its best players by graduation this year, and this may give him a short respite. But, sooner or later, another wonder team will come on the scene and the issue will arise again. The only "out" we see is for Pasadena to build a bowl several sizes larger than Soldiers Field in Chicago.—San Francisco News.

EASY TERMS GENTLEMAN KEEPS A DIARY

Jan. 4—Bought a car today. Very easy terms, very fine car, with cigar lighter on dash. Should finish payments in 18 months.

Feb. 4—Paid installment due on car. Bought a radio set on easy terms. First payments will be small and monthly.

March 11—A little late with car payment this month; will have to let radio payment go over till April as I bought a set of books and paid $11 down. Very fine books. Everybody should have this set.

April 15—Borrowed $50 from the boss to meet car payments. The radio man came to take the radio, but we put out the lights and weren't at home. The chump hung around the entire evening, so I couldn't see to read the books.

June 1—Borrowed $100 from Uncle George to pay the $50 to the boss and to meet the car payment. Got behind a little on the book payment because I bought a piece of land in a new real estate development. This land ought to jump in value. Paid $50 down.

July 15—Somehow I don't miss the radio much. And you can get plenty of books from the public library. The thing that hurts is that Uncle George should be so mean. Of course I told him I'd pay back the $50 on July 1, but you can't do the impossible, can you? Trying to arrange a character loan from the bank. If I can borrow $250 I can get square again and everything will be fine.

Aug. 15—Bank says I have no character. What a bunch of crooks.

Sept. 30—Garage man is holding the car for labor bill. What right has he to hold the car—it doesn't belong to me.

Oct. 1—It isn't any use. I had to let the car go. Anyway, I'd rather have that piece of land. They've given me a month's grace on it.

Nov. 15—Well, they can have their old land. Good riddance. If I knew where to get $30 to meet the payment on the piano, I'd be all right. Bought a new automobile today, on the "pay out of income" basis.

Dec. 1—Income stopped. Got fired at the office. In looking for a job you've got to have a suit of clothes so I bought me one this afternoon. Five dollars down. Not bad.—Exchange.

Bright Moments

One day Henry Clay was speaking to Robert C. Winthrop, who was then speaker of the house. "I have actively observed your course as speaker," said Mr. Clay, "and I have heartily approved it. But let me give you one hint from the oldest of your predecessors. Decide—decide promptly—and never give your reasons for your decisions. The house will sustain your decisions, but there will always be men to cavil and quarrel about your reasons."

I was sittin' in a restaurant with Grandpa Snazzy the other day and one of them Beem Brumleys with oily, basted down hair sat down at the counter by us and before we knew it, he was tellin' us about a girl who was crazy about him and that he'd turned down. Grandpa says, "Well, what happened to the poor girl?"

WHIMSIES

DAY BY DAY
With

NEW YORK.—Purely personal piffle. Emily Post's best advice could not convince me dunking doughnuts is not perfectly dandy. My best dish of soupy hash was in Sopchoppy, Fla. When things used to go wrong during court days I played "Poor But-terfly" on the gramophone.

Art hoot from the bleachers: No movie star has yet topped Tom Mix's $20,000 a week. A picture I covet: "The End of the Hunt" by Dale Nichols in the Chicago Museum. When I get excited in argument I babble somewhat like that cry of the tobacco auctioneer on the radio.

I have to hear a Cole Porter tune several times before I want to hum it. Gorgeous eyelid: Mrs. William Rhinelander Stewart. Ad- vanced footbale: Lee Shubert's Tempus fugit note: Former Ziegfeld girls now shrink from such identification. It dates them.

In my scrap-book is a Hollywood letter from Marie Dressler that is a sermon on holding on: It reads: "The outlook is bleak. I am tempted to take what little is left and go to Paris to open a family pension for Americans."

Goodbye to the radio. Wilson Mizner was once barred from the Lambs for remarking that without its full length mirror near the entrance it would have no members. Homespun note: A friend has a letter from Calvin Coolidge's father written on the side of an ironed-out paper bag. Winston Churchill is panning his new home on his Cornish, N. H. estate in pine grove thereon. He is also a landscape painter and sits two hours a day at his easel and two hours writing a novel of philosophy. At 66 what a pleasant down coast! 1938's No. 1 picture stealer: Alice Brady.
